Blasts Off N. Y. Sink Destroyer

NEW YORK, Jan. 3 (INS)—A United States destroyer exploded and sank in lower New York bay today and first indications were that loss of life was heavy.

SANDY HOOK—Map shows relation of Sandy Hook to Greater New York . . . and cross marks approximate spot where destroyer was lost by explosion today.

A Third Naval District announcement said merely that more than 100 survivors had been rescued but gave no details. A destroyer, depending on size, usually carries a complement of between 200 and 300, officers and men.

The tersely worded announcement from the naval district said the ship sank about six miles northeast of Sandy Hook and added that the cause of the blasts was not known.

The ship went down outside the channel leading to the harbor and "there is no obstruction to sea-going traffic."

Fifty-four of the survivors were reportedly taken to the base hospital at Ft. Hancock, while 59 others were en route to other near-by hospitals. No estimate of the loss of life was immediately available.

RUSH BLOOD PLASMA

Two hundred units of blood plasma were rushed to the Ft. Hancock Base Hospital from the Marine Hospital at Stapleton, S. I.

Rear Admr. E. J. Marquardt, commander of the Third Naval District, assumed personal charge of the Navy's investigation.

The text of the Navy's statement said:

"A United States destroyed exploded and sank six miles northeast of Sandy Hook this morning.

"The cause of the explosion is as yet undetermined.

"In excess of 100 survivors already have been landed.

"The sinking was outside the channel leading into the harbor, and there are no obstructions to sea-going traffic.

"Rescue and salvage operations are proceeding."

THREE TERRIFIC BLASTS

The ship went down after a series of three violent explosions which shook homes in downtown Brooklyn, Queens and parts of lower Manhattan.

The first blast, occurring at approximately 6:20 a. m., awakened residents as far away as Kew Gardens, Queens. In some sections where the blast was particularly heavy residents rushed into the streets in their nightclothes.

It also shook buildings in the metropolitan New York area and residents nearer the scene—off Sandy Hook—said they saw huge sheets of flame shoot into the air after the first blast.

The force of the concussion was so violent that more than 100 windows were shattered in Queens alone. Five plate-glass windows were broken in Surf ave. and two on the boardwalk at Coney Island.

In Sheepshead Bay, Brooklyn, at least 10 windows were smashed in restaurants and stores along the waterfront.

RAF BLASTS BERLIN RUINS IN 2D '44 RAID

By GLADWIN HILL

LONDON, Jan. 3 (AP)—Berlin, the RAF's first target for 1944, was given its second seething bath of fire and bombs of the New Year today by British airmen who delivered their 10th great blow against the charred capital.

The newest attack came while fires still burned from a 1000-ton or bigger assault early Sunday and while German rescue workers still dug dead and injured from the ruins.

The air ministry, describing today's attack as "heavy," said 28 aircraft were lost in the Berlin raid, Mosquito stabs in west Germany and northern France and minelaying in enemy waters.

Two large concentrations of fire were left roaring in the city, the communique said. Swedish dispatches declared the tortured German capital had had its worst night since the "destroy Berlin" campaign began Nov. 18.

About 21 hours elapsed between the two attacks on Berlin, but Swedish correspondents said the menace of delayed action bombs had kept residents in shelters until 3 p. m. yesterday and less than eight hours later sirens were shrieking again. The main blow fell several hours later.

Swedish reports said Hitler's luxurious new chancellery on the Wilhelmsplatz was one place hit in the barrage, which struck first at the outlying industrial areas and then worked to the official and residential areas in the heart of the capital.

Berlin has now received upward of 15,680 tons of bombs in the knockout campaign, and between 20,000 and 25,000 tons of explosives and incendiaries since January, 1943.

YANK COUP IN NEW GUINEA TRAPS JAPS

GEN. DOUGLAS MacARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS IN NEW GUINEA, Jan. 3 (INS)—Jap forces trapped on the north coast of New Guinea through a surprise new landing by the United States Sixth Army faced annihilation today.

The surprise amphibious operation which was effected at dawn Sunday under cover of a heavy aerial and naval bombardment bewildered the Japs and the landing was carried out without the loss of a man.

Yank troops commanded by Brig.-Gen. Clarence Martin, veteran of the Buna campaign, swept ashore onto three beaches and promptly seized the harbor and airfields in the area, 115 miles northwest of the Allied base of Finschafen and only 55 miles southeast of the important Jap base of Madang.

A force of more than 100 heavy and medium bombers paved the way for the combined air, sea and land operation and dropped 200 tons of explosives on Jap defenses and installations.

Captured Saidor was a former government station. It is about 100 miles northwest of Blucher Point from which Australian troops which seized Finschhafen are advancing.

The trapped Japs are confined in a narrow coastal corridor little more than three miles wide. On one side lies the sea and on the other the forbidding Finisterra Range with peaks more than three miles high. In the Ramu valley behind the peaks are other Australian forces.

Tito Troops Storm Key Town

LONDON, Jan. 3 (INS)—Yugoslav Partisan troops have captured half the town of Banjaluka, which is headquarters for the second German tank army charged with defense of the Adriatic coast, a communique from headquarters of Marshal Tito disclosed today.

100, Faces Execution

NEW YORK (INS)—The Brazzaville radio reported that a 100-year-old Frenchman has been sentenced to death by a special Marseille tribunal for "terrorist activities."

Reds Race on for Poland as Nazis Crumble

LONDON, Jan. 3 (AP)—Russia's triumphant First Ukraine army sped on today virtually in sight of old Poland following the capture of oyaski, last main fortified strongpoint on the Kiev-Warsaw railway 10 miles from the border.

At the same time other units of the victorious First surged southwestward toward Zhmerinka, key rail junction on the Odessa-Warsaw rail line serving the lower Ukraine, less than 50 miles from the Rumanian frontier.

RUSSIA—Smashing forward in the Kiev bulge Red forces today neared the pre-war Polish border with the capture of Poyaski only 10 miles east of the line.

The whole German line from Korosten south to Berdichev appeared to be crumbling before the unflagging Red Army onslaught and the exhausted remnants of Gen. von Mannstein's once imposing army of 22 divisions were being slashed to ribbons.

The communique announcing the capture of Poyaski, northwest of Korosten, placed the Red army only 10 miles from the old frontier and disclosed that Gen. Nikolai Vatutin's First Ukranian army had made a spurt of 17 miles in a day in some places—a pace which if continued in the Poyaski sector would put it inside old Poland today.

The Russian communique told of tremendous stores of Nazi war material being abandoned—fleets of tanks, parks of field guns, armored carriers, trucks, rolling stock and huge ammunition dumps—and reported that more than 4000 Germans were killed yesterday on this front alone.

Prison cages behind the Russian lines were filled to overflowing with "long lines of German prisoners, underfed and grey from privations, and many suffering from frostbite," a Moscow broadcast said.

The Moscow radio, in a broadcast recorded in New York by the Federal Communications Commission, quoted Stockholm sources as asserting that Gen. Kurt Zeitzler, chief of the German Army general staff, and Gen. Alfred Jodl, Adolf Hitler's personal military adviser, had arrived at Von Mannstein's headquarters on the Russian front.

The rampaging Soviet forces also were reported advancing far to the north in White Russia. There, the first Baltic army was said to be less than 45 miles from Latvia after storming 40 villages and killing 3000 Nazis north and northwest of Nevel.

In the drive on Poland west of Korosten, Gen. Vatutin's northern wing yesterday swept up more than 150 towns and villages for a gain of 17 miles.

Berlin Talks Of Invasion

LONDON, Jan. 3 (AP)—German propaganda outlets poured forth a stream of invasion talk today as an increasing number of American troops thronged the streets of London.

"Competent circles believe," said one Berlin broadcast, "that — compelled by political reasons — the invasion armies which stand in readiness in southern England may hit out earlier than would seem proper for military considerations."

The broadcast declared that one such political reason is that Moscow "is not satisfied with the 25 to 30 divisions engaged on the Italian front."

Yank Bombs Wreck Paris Plane Plant

LONDON, Jan. 3 (AP)—The American daylight bombing raid on the suburbs of Paris and southern French air bases Friday did heavy damage to the big Hispano-Suiza airplane engine plant and two ballbearing plants and destroyed at least 25 grounded planes, reconnaissance photographs revealed today.

U. S. Wedding Gowns Now on Lend-Lease

SIOUX CITY, Ia., Jan. 3 (AP)—Mrs. Robert Pike, president of the Iowa Federation of Women's Clubs, said today the organization would send 25 or 30 wedding gowns with complete accessories to England to be lent to brides who are unable to get them because of the wartime shortage.

Canadians Close on Italian Port

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Algiers, Jan. 3 (AP)—Heavy fighting raged north of Ortona where Canadians have fought to within nine miles and artillery range of the strategic Adriatic port of Pescara, Allied headquarters announced today.

Rain, snow and high winds limited ground operations elsewhere in Italy to patrolling, but strong forces of medium bombers attacked rail communications at Taggia, Ventimiglia and Arma Riva on the Italian Riviera yesterday, while other medium bombers attacked rail yards at Terni, 49 miles northeast of Rome, causing explosions and fires.

An air communique said fighters and fighter bombers caused "widespread damage" in sweeps against motor transports and rolling stock on roads in the battle area.

Two Allied aircraft were lost.

As an official Allied statement said the Germans were showing signs of exhaustion after throwing divisions piece-meal into the battle for Italy, the Allied Fifth Army gathered strength for a drive on Cassino and the road to Rome. British troops of the Fifth Army, it was announced, made a new bold foray across the Garigliano river, penetrating to Castel Forte and then withdrawing.

EVELYN FOX, 40, AFTER LEAP FOR LIFE FROM FIRE
Saved From Flames That Cost Lives of Two Babies

2 Babies Killed In Fire, 5 Hurt

Two infants were burned to death today in a Hyde Park fire that sent their mother, two young sisters and a brother to City Hospital with critical injuries.

A woman who jumped from the second floor of the burning house was also rushed to the hospital.

The fire, which brought tragedy to Mrs. Charles Reed, 26, and her five youngsters, broke out at 26 Easton ave., and was discovered by a neighbor, Miss Marguerite Chisholm, who noticed smoke pouring out of the kitchen.

Immediately afterwards she saw Mrs. Reed and her six-year-old daughter, Anne, occupants of the first floor, dash out, their clothing in flames. Miss Chisholm and her sister, Mrs. Anna Pineault, rushed out carrying rugs and, as they wrapped the rugs around the flaming figures of the two, the mother screamed pitifully:

"Save my babies! They're inside. I can't see—I'm blinded!"

As Miss Chisholm phoned the fire department, Mrs. Evelyn Fox, occupant of the second floor, jumped from the window and landed unconscious. Her five children were all at school

Two other neighbors, John E. Wharton, 21, of Margin st., and his 62-year-old father, Joseph, made a heroic but futile attempt to rescue Mrs. Reed's other children.

John ran across the frozen Neponset river, opposite the house, followed by his father, and twice slipped through the ice in efforts to get across. He broke the window on the first floor, lacerating both wrists, and climbed into the house, but was driven out by smoke and flames.

Two of Mrs. Reed's children, Mary, 4, and William, 5, stumbled out of the house. When firemen arrived and entered the dwelling, they found the charred bodies of Mrs. Reid's infants—Rita, 18 months old, and John, 8 months, on the floor.

Dr. Benjamin J. Chefitz, head of the neighborhood civilian defense organization, administered first aid before the ambulance arrived, and Fiori Giamasi, 23, an Easton ave. neighbor, aided in the rescue work by wrapping his coat around the body of little William.

Dist. Chief William Donovan said the fire apparently started when the oil range in the Reed kitchen flooded

Trees Out!

Christmas is over—and it should be the memory, not the tree, that lingers on.

If your holiday tree still stands in your living-room, get it out immediately—so warned Fire Comr. W. A. Reilly today.

"Trees should not be kept in yards or alleyways or on sidewalks where they may become easily ignited," he said.

Bushnell Drops 5 Cop Charges

Atty.-Gen. Bushnell today unexpectedly nol prossed the conspiracy to permit gambling indictments brought months ago against five ranking Boston police officials. Even usually well-informed courthouse attaches were surprised at the move.

The nol prosse came as the defendants were waiting either for the trial to begin or for the state prosecutor to ask further delay on the basis of three of his aides having resigned suddenly last week.

When the dropping of charges was announced, friends rushed forward and congratulated the five defendants—Police Supt. Edward W. Fallon, Deputy Supt. John M. Anderson, Deputy James R. Claflin, Capt. John A. Dorsey and Capt. Edward J. Keating.

BULLETIN

Police Commr. Sullivan stated shortly before noon that he would reinstate the five Boston officials "as of 5:45 p. m. today," wtih no loss of pay from their suspensions.

However, the police head would make no comment when asked as to the status of the men, and if they would resume their old posts.

Former Police Commr. Joseph F. Timilty, originally named in the indictment but successful in a plea to have the charge against him quashed, was among those who congratulated his former subordinates.

TIMILITY'S COMMENT

Timilty, commenting on the surprise action of Bushnell, told reporters:

"Well, he accomplished what he went after—my job."

Meanwhile, the new police commissioner, Col. Thomas F. Sullivan, who ordered suspension of the five officers after he took office in November, declined to speak of reinstatement until he had read the official papers in the case. He told the press at police headquarters:

"I made the statement at the

Cook on Trial In Child Grab

With the ex-wife he has not seen for two years as the chief witness, Dr. John T. Cook, 37, former languages professor at Harvard, faced trial today in Middlesex superior court on a charge of kidnaping his own two children.

The complaintant, whom he married when she was his 15-year-old pupil, is Mrs. Elsie Glenna Cook, 24, of Freeman st., Arlington, who now has been happily re-united with her two children, taken by their father to Canada in 1941. They are Sonia, 9, and Donald, 7.

Brought here from Montreal by state police, Dr. Cook announced he had agreed to return of the children to their mother and promised never to attempt to separate them again.

The former Harvard educator was indicted by the Middlesex County grand jury after testimony that he had taken the children out for the afternoon, only to rush them off to Canada. He obtained a divorce from his wife a short time before the alleged kidnaping, but Mrs. Cook was awarded custody of the two youngsters.

No matter what the decision of the court, Dr Cook has scant chance of seeing his children again for many years. If found guilty and sentenced he will be deported as soon as the term is served.

If allowed to go free he will be taken to the border and sent over into Canada at once under special immigration proceedings arranged for when he was brought here for trial.

Plane Tail Shot Off, Gunner in It Keeps Firing

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3 (AP)—The War Department revealed the story of courageous Staff Sergt. Ben P. Colecchi of New Castle, Pa., a tail gunner who continued firing at strafing enemy Zeros from the severed tail of his bomber until it disappeared in the ocean.

Witnesses on the Sept. 11 Paramushiru-Shimushu bombing mission brought back the word.

The four-engine bomber was attacked simultaneously by two Zeros and crashed. Fliers of the Liberator formation said the tail section of the sinking plane broke away from the rest of the wreckage and remained afloat momentarily. Sergt. Colecchi, sitting in the tail, continued a steady stream of fire at Japanese strafing planes until the compartment went out of sight.

He is listed as missing in action. The Air Medal has been awarded him

Miss Edna Taylor of 251 Pearl st., Cambridge, was the first to present herself for a 1944 donation, to give her 16th pint.

Mrs. Marion Ormond of Lexington, whose 18-year-old son is on submarine duty in the Pacific, and who has 14 other close relatives in the armed services, gave her 14th pint. Her husband is a former Army sergeant and her two other sons are studying to enter the service.

Fitchburg Bus Driver Dies at Wheel

LEOMINSTER, Jan. 3—Bus Driver George Bussiere, 65, of Leominster rd., Fitchburg, suddenly halted his vehicle today in North Main st., slumped over the wheel and died.

Only a few passengers were aboard the Fitchburg & Leominster Street Railway bus, which had just arrived from Fitchburg.

Solons Return Eager to Pass Vet Pay Bill

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3—Members of Congress, returning to the capital from Christmas vacations today, reported an overwhelming sentiment throughout the nation for speedy enactment of legislation assuring adequate, decent mustering-out pay for discharged and disabled war veterans.

Constituents in all sections of the nation informed representatives they favored the Lemke bill, or something at least equivalent to it, which would extend the Army pay at base rates of a private, for periods ranging up to a year after discharge.

It was generally agreed on Capitol Hill that the mustering-out pay act would be the first important problem Congress will tackle when it reconvenes next Monday.

Two members of the House military affairs committee, Rep. R. Ewing Thomason of Texas, second ranking Democratic member, and Rep. John J. Sparkman of Alabama, said they favored immediate action. They said Rep. Andrew May, committee chairman, is due back here tomorrow from his home in Prestonburg, Ky., to speed preparation of legislation.

May, who deserted the capital during the heat of the campaign last month, making enactment of a muster-out pay bill before Christmas impossible, is on record as promising early action for the sick and wounded veterans of America's wars.

READY SOON

It is expected that, following May's return to the capital, members of his committee will hold a series of executive sessions to thrash out various proposals before them, and to agree upon a bill.

What form the bill, as reported out by the military affairs committee, may take appears doubtful. May himself is the author of a bill—branded as a "sop" and an "insult" to the veterans—which would give each man $300 on discharge.

The Senate, shortly before the Christmas recess, passed a bill which would give veterans mustering-out pay ranging from $200 to $500, according to length of service; and that bill, too, will be considered by the House committee.

FOR LEMKE BILL

Both measures, however, have been called inadequate; and a steering committee of nearly a hundred members of Congress is ready to demand passage of the Lemke bill, which would give every veteran $100 immediately on discharge—for food, clothes, and other essentials in connection with his transfer to civilian life — and would extend the Army pay, at the base rate of a private, for periods ranging up to one year.

TRAINEE—Eleanor G. Martin of Beverly, is now training at the Coast Guard SPARship Biltmore, Palm Beach, Fla., and on completion of her course will release a Coast Guardsman for combat duty.

Room Dedicated To Kirstein

Named in memory of Louis E. Kirstein, philanthropist, civic leader and late president of Wm. Filene's Sons Co., a reception room was opened in the Boston Center for Adult Education today after impressive dedication exercises.

Thirty-one friends banded together to raise a fund for the naming of the Louis E. Kirstein Room. Miss Francis G. Curtis, president of the Center's executive committee, presented the plaque, bearing Mr. Kirstein's name, to the director, Miss Dorothy Hewitt and paid tribute to the contributions to Boston's cultural life by the late executive.

Mrs. Mina Kirstein Curtiss of New York, only daughter of Mr. Kirstein, was present, but his two sons, Lincoln E., ensign in the Navy, and George G. Kirstein, who is in the Army, were unable to attend. Mrs. Kirstein, the widow is in Florida. Judge Jacob J. Kaplan, personal counsel for Mr. Kirstein and attorney for the estate, was on hand.

Rail Unions Ired By War Delay Slur

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3 (AP)—Railroad union leaders are planning to ask the Truman committee to investigate the source and reason for the anonymous statement by a high government official that threats of steel and railroad strikes may have delayed victory over Germany.

One union chief declared the statement was "resented bitterly" and that he and his associates would "take very definite steps to find out the source."

The government figure, who stipulated that his name was not to be used, described the labor disputes as a "great tragedy" which may eventually cost the lives of thousands of Allied soldiers. German propagandists have used them, he asserted, to picture chaos in the United States and thus bolster Axis resistance.

Four Escaping Convicts Caught

DAVENPORT, Ia., Jan. 3 (AP)—Thirty-one hours after staging a violent break from the Anamosa State Reformatory, four long-term convicts were back in custody today. All surrendered without a struggle.

Capture of the last of the desperadoes, Steve Ratliff, 31, of Marengo, Ia., serving 25 years for robbery, came when Orville Graham, driver of a West Davenport bus, became suspicious of the passenger who sat in the rear with his hands over his face.

First to be caught was Frank Brown, 23, of Poplar Bluff, Mo., serving a 10-year term for auto theft. He was taken at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Warren after helping their 14-year-old son, Herbert, deliver Sunday morning papers.

John Bryl, 31, Omaha, and Ralph Cassidy, 34, Davenport, both serving 25-year terms for robbery, were taken in a barn belonging to Frank Martin. Martin's attention was drawn to the barn by his barking dog. Armed with a shotgun, he ordered the men out.

URGES PLAN TO IRON OUT TAX MUDDLE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3 (AP)—A major legislative operation designed to make it unnecessary for millions of persons to file any Federal income tax returns at all was proposed today by Rep. Carlson (R.) of Kansas. Most income taxes would be deducted automatically from wages and salaries under his plan.

Declaring simplification to be "the No. 1 tax job" for 1944, he inserted in the Congressional Record his own suggestions for remedy, as follows:

1—Simplify and improve current withholding provisions so as to eliminate the need for any returns to be filed by 30,000,000 of the 40,000,000 to 50,000,000 taxpayers. "This could be done by adopting a graduated withholding from wages and salaries," he said "and at the same time allowing a percentage of income exemption" in lieu of the present deductions for other taxes paid, interest and contributions to churches and charity.

2—Combine existing personal income tax laws into one base and rate. "Under existing laws we have one base and varying rates for the regular income tax and a separate base and rate for the victory tax," he said.

3—Repeal earned income credit. "There is sound argument for retaining the earned income credit, but its retention greatly complicates our tax return and is of little actual benefit to the taxpayer."

Urge F. D. Action In Fish Strike

Intervention by President Roosevelt appeared today as the only possible hope for a quick ending of the strike of Boston fishermen in protest against OPA price ceilings.

The fishermen, at a meeting in Meridian Hall, voted to continue the walkout, now in its sixth week, but Patrick McHugh, secretary-treasurer of the Atlantic Fishermen's Union, said if the President issued an order, "the men are all Americans and will obey."

McHugh said high OPA officials had admitted they had "messed up" the fish price-ceiling program, but were unwilling to change their policy because "they don't want to lose face."

In voting to continue the strike, the fishermen turned down pleas of Reps. John W. McCormack and Christian Herter to resume work under a promise of an early Congressional investigation

Tobin Outlines 48 Million Hub Postwar Plans

A $48,262,800 postwar building program, to provide jobs for veterans of World War II, was outlined today by Mayor Tobin in his annual report to the city council, in which he declared it was the duty of governments to provide interim employment to veterans.

Major projects under consideration by the mayor's conference on traffic, Tobin declared, included:

Extension of rapid transit service from Forest Hills over Providence division of New York, New Haven & Hartford to Readville and return over Dedham and West Roxbury branches. Cost—$10,426,600.

TWO NEW SUBWAYS

Removal of El structure between Bennett st. and Forest Hills and construction of subway. Cost—$23,000,000.

Removal of El structure from North Station to Sullivan sq. and construction of subway. Cost—$11,000,000.

Adjustment of New Haven line between Harrison sq. and Braintree to Boston El operation at request of Governor's committee on metropolitan transportation. Cost—$3,835,200.

In addition, the mayor said, other projects under contemplation included extension of East Boston tunnel from Chelsea st., East Boston, to the expanded East Boston airport and beyond to Orient Heights.

Also under consideration, said Tobin, are plans for broadening of recreational facilities which "have not kept pace with our needs."

NEED FOR BIG WORKS

"With these examples of proposed projects which merit consideration in planning postwar activities, it may be ascertained the city government recognizes the part it must play in the postwar period," Tobin declared.

"It also demonstrates the city recognizes the need for large-scale improvements if our city is to maintain its standing as a leading metropolitan center of our nation."

Tobin said several projects already have been definitely approved and await only release of priorities to set them in motion.

"The project standing No. 1 on my list is construction of a viaduct connecting Long Island with the mainland and replacement of all second and third-class structures at that institutions, said Tobin.

WANTS NO MORE IDLE

He estimated $2,300,000 would be the cost of the viaduct, womens' hospital, women's dormitory and a men's hospital.

Tobin declared a postwar program was necessary to prevent repetition of the conditions after World War I which found veterans unable to obtain work.

"To permit that to happen again, after a war in which over twice as many men are in the armed services, and over twice as many individuals in defense work, would result in a consequence far more frightful to contemplate than the combined hate of all our enemies."

Reporting on the city's financial condition, Tobin said the net funded debt was "slightly more than $110,000,00, the lowest figure since 1929."

He urged "wholehearted cooperation of the council in continuation of my debt policy until the end of my term, which will result in a net funded debt of $93,000,000."

Tobin omitted the usual recital of departmental activities in order "to focus on two important topics, namely, a factual resume of the state of the city government and a consideration of postwar planning."

The mayor's speech followed inauguration of six new councilors. Immediately after Tobin completed, the council went into session to choose a president.

Seeking re-election as council president, Thomas J. Hannon of Dorchester, was opposed by Councilor John E. Kerrigan of South Boston, former president, who is returning to City Hall after an absence of four years.

Other incoming councilors are James C. Bayley, Jr., of Ward 5, Back Bay; William J. Keenan, of Ward 17, Dorchester; Michael Paul Feeney, of Ward 18, Hyde Park; Thomas L. McCormack, of Ward 19, Jamaica Plain, and Thomas G. J. Shannon, of Ward 20, West Roxbury.

Waitress Arraigned In $140 Soldier Theft

Charged with stealing $140 from a trusting soldier, Florence E. (Billie) Mollenauer, 25, of West Newton st., South End, waitress in a Scollay sq. cafe, was arraigned in municipal court today.

Her arrest followed complaint by Pvt. Gerald Merrithew of Ft. Devens that the money was taken from his wallet when he passed it to a waitress to pay his bill. He said she took all his money except $23 and returned the wallet to him.

Discovering his loss later, Merrithew took police on a tour of cafes in the Scollay sq. district to find the alleged thief.

The blonde waitress denied the charge in the lineup.

'2d' Death Bona Fide

CHICAGO, Jan. 3 (AP)—The "second death" of Oscar Williamson, 73, former Vincennes, Ind., public official, was officially recorded today.

Williamson, one-time deputy county treasurer in Vincennes, failed to return home from work one day in 1926. After seven years, his wife, Mary, mother of their six children, declared she believed herself a widow and Williamson was declared legally dead.

Williamson died of heart disease yesterday in an undertaking chapel, where he had been employed at odd jobs for the past five years.

Louis Cohen, owner of the chapel, inquired about Williamson's family.

"They all think I'm dead, so forget it," Cohen said Williamson related shortly before he died.

Cohen called the Vincennes chief of police and the widow was notified of Williamson's death.

Big Watertown Fire Probed

The state fire marshal's office today probed a general alarm fire which swept the Kimball Lumber Co. in Waltham st., Watertown, destroying buildings and a million feet of lumber earmarked for the government and valued at $140,000.

Firemen from Newton, Belmont and Waltham joined in battling the blaze, which sent flames skyward more than 100 feet.

The call for a state investigation was made by Fire Chief John W. O'Hearn, who said it was the most spectacular Watertown fire in 25 years.

VET JOBS PLANNED BY QUINCY

Postwar planning to provide jobs for returning soldiers was emphasized by Mayor Charles A. Ross of Quincy today in his annual address to the city council.

He said plans were under consideration for "mobilization of all industry, business and mercantile places to assure our fighting men of help upon their return."

Frank N. Orcutt was elected council president on the first ballot. He defeated William W. Jenness, who sought re-election.

By unanimous vote the council re-appointed Harry W. Terrell, 78, to a 56th term as city messenger. Terrell is the only one to occupy that post since the city was chartered, 56 years ago.

Carl Anderson of Ward 2 and Amelio Della Chiesa of Ward 3, new councilors, were sworn in by Mayor Ross.

Plan to Encircle, Disarm Germany

By KINGSBURY SMITH

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3 (INS)—Encirclement of Germany by a string of Allied air bases after the war to prevent re-armament was foreseen today as part of an Anglo-American-Soviet security plan for Europe.

The authoritative Army and Navy Journal revealed that the question of bases to control Germany was discussed by President Roosevelt, Marshal Stalin and Prime Minister Churchill at Teheran.

Flaming Fort Crash Kills 13

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Jan. 3 (AP) — A thunderous explosion cracked out of the stormy sky and thousands of persons looked up to see a four-motored Army Flying Fortress plummet to earth in flames near McClellan Field, killing 13 men aboard.

One motor, a wingtip and other parts littered a wide area, and down from the thick overcast drifted a lone parachutist—the only survivor of the tragic ending to a Sunday flight from McChord Field at Tacoma, Wash., to Los Angeles.

Tregaskis Due Back in U. S.

Richard Tregaskis, International News Service war correspondent and author of "Guadalcanal Diary," is rapidly recovering from wounds suffered in Italy and soon expects to be back in the United States, it was disclosed in an indirect message from him to this newspaper today.

The information about Dick, former Boston American reporter, came in a letter from Sergt. Donald J. Flynn, a reporter on a Lynn newspaper, and now with the Fifth Army in Italy, who wrote the good news to a relative on this newspaper.

Tregaskis, who won renown with his dispatches on the Solomon Islands invasion, was struck in the head by a shrapnel splinter soon after being assigned to the European theater and playing another invasion role with the Fifth Army in Italy.

Sergt. Flynn, who saw Tregaskis Dec. 11, wrote, in part, as follows:

"Finally had a chance to look up Dick Tregaskis, so called on him today at a nearby hospital where we chatted about half an hour. I carried out your request and gave him regards from your gang in the office and told him they all were rooting for a speedy recovery.

"Says to tell the gang he expects to leave for the States real soon but still has a bit of work to be done on his head and mentioned that his arm isn't acting exactly right.

"Seems like a real nice guy and got a big kick out of the way you fellows sent regards through me. I told him I had chased him over most of Italy but just missed him a half dozen times. He looks like he's got the stuff to pull him through O. K."

Secrets of Hitler Youth Diary

Disillusioned Trooper Bares Hatred of Nazi Brutality

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Algiers, Jan. 3 (AP)—Allied headquarters today released a diary of a former storm troop leader in the Hitler youth movement captured in Italy which showed the young Nazi had had a complete change of heart after less than a year of fighting.

Extracts from the diary, as released by headquarters, included these:

Jan. -5, 1943—"What excitement! My first day as a real soldier."

Jan. 23, 1943—"Fitted out in uniform. I look fine if a little odd."

THEN TONE CHANGED

Fbe. 15, 1943—"Gradually I am beginning to fel myself a real soldier."

There followed a long poem about the armored grenadiers. In September, the ex-storm troop leader came to Italy, and in November the tone of the diary changed. There were references to the weight of "Tommy's artillery fire" and the number of German casualties.

Then in December there was this notation: "I wish I was an Englishman. All this retreating does not agree with me."

On Dec. 22, the day before his capture, the official statement said, the following was found in his diary:

"Yesterday night, during retreat, I broke finally and irrevocably with my old life.

HATES GERMAN ARMY

"Gone are all the old values, all that was precious to me. In my soul only one thing remains — hatred for the bestiality of the German army. For at last one is human.

"What have we to fight for? Everyone cursed the Nazi government, but few have the courage to run against it. Why? Because of brutality, and the power of oppression is still strong.

"If only the opportunity offered, I would help strengthen the thousands who long for the day of the final collapse . . . if I ever survive to leave the front alive, at least I shall have seen through the tawdry facade of Nazi politics, I shall know the points at which the Nazis are weakest . . .

"Why was I born a German? I feel myself always a slave."

HUB SCHOOLS REOPEN, BUT MAY CLOSE

Boston's public schools reopened as scheduled today after the Christmas holiday vacation, but whether a temporary closing may be ordered because of the prevalence of colds and influence was to be decided today by the school committee.

Opposed to closing the schools was Dr. G. Lynde Gately, city health commissioner, who reported that the three-week outbreak of respiratory ailments in Boston has shown a marked dropping off in the last few days.

"Spread of the disease is definitely declining," Dr. Gately said, "and I will advise the school committee that I do not advocate closing of the schools.

A week's closing was suggested by Committeeman Clement A. Norton, and advisability of adopting his proposal was scheduled for discussion at the committee's first meeting of the year today. The committee is expected to request a survey of absences of both pupils and teachers.

Dr. Gately said all school children will receive careful physical checkups at schools and those with colds sent home. Parents were advised to keep children at home and in bed if they have colds or temperatures.

Listing Job Headache

Boston police began their annual job of listing all residents today, handicapped somewhat because many a lady of the house is wearing overalls in some war plant.

As a result, Lieut. Wilfred D. Mulligan, in command of the listing squad, requests that residents aid policemen by leaving all necessary information. This includes the name, address, occupation and age of all persons 20 years of age or over, as well as residence this year and that of Jan. 1, 1943.

A group of picked men will do the listing, with the work being completed by a staff of workers at the Williams Memorial Building, South End.

F. D. Plans Shakeup In Cabinet, Report

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3 (INS)—White House intimates were whispering today that President Roosevelt will shake up his cabinet shortly for the purpose of getting greater strength in his inner council during the final victory drives on Germany and Japan.

The posts of attorney general, secretary of war and secretary of labor are involved in the rumors.

If the changes are made, however, Washington observers will conclude immediately that the President is putting his "cabinet in order" for a fourth term campaign.

The whispering says that Atty.-Gen. Francis Biddle will leave the cabinet during January, presumably for a diplomatic post abroad, perhaps ambassador to Mexico.

The names of Solicitor-General Charles Fahy and special assistant to the Attorney-General James P. McGranery are being mentioned as possibilities for the attorney-generalship. Fahy, like Biddle, is a protege of Supreme Court Justice Felix Frankfurter, while McGranery, who resigned a seat in the House of Representatives to take his present post, is a personal friend of the President.

The whispering adds that Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson will retire shortly and be offered the post of ambassador to Great Britain.

The names of Undersecretary of War Robert P. Patterson and Louis A. Johnson, former undersecretary and one-time national commander of the American Legion, are being mentioned as possible successors to Stimson.

The whispering says that if Stimson is shifted to London, then the present ambassador, John G. Winant, will be brought home and made secretary of labor.

Fire Sweeps Depot For War Materials

TOLEDO, O., Jan. 3 (AP)—Fire destroyed a 200-foot-square area of a warehouse at the Harvester war depot 10 miles southwest of Toledo early today, Lieut. R. W. Reynolds, public relations officer at the post, reported.

He said spare automobile parts and other ordnance material were stored in the building, adding that cause of the blaze was unknown but that it might have resulted from an overheated stove.

Bushnell

time of their suspension that if they were exonerated and cleared of all charges they would be reinstated with full pay.

"I am trying to get some confirmation of what I have heard. I have sent to the Attorney-General's office to get a copy of the statement that he is reported to have issued and anything else that may guide me. For the present I really can say nothing else."

Bushnell, indeed, had made the statement which Commr. Sullivan preferred to read for himself. This statement had been filed with the nolle prosequi bombshell in superior court, and in it Bushnell said his original indictment had been "altered and whittled down by a court ruling eliminating the police commissioner from its scope and leaving only subordinates to stand trial."

The attorney-general also seemingly sought to keep open a road for further action against the police officials by declaring in his long statement:

"It should be noted that neither the entry of nolle prosequi nor the statement of reasons therefor constitute any barrier whatsoever to appropriate proceedings before any tribunal with reference to all or any part of the subject matter considered herein."

Further along this line, Bushnell said:

"The entry that the Commonwealth will not further prosecute the within indictment, as well as the statement of reasons for such disposition, or any part thereof, is limited exclusively to this indictment as it now stands before the court and under all the circumstances."

Complaining that quashing of the charge against Timilty "completely changes the context, meaning and legal significance of the indictment as presented by the grand jury," Bushnell asserted the police case "presents a situation different from that often referred to by the courts, wherein, as in Commonwealth vs. Dyer . . . 'All conspirators need not be named in an indictment.'"

"Under the indictment in present form," Bushnell continued, "the Commonwealth is materially restricted in the matter of the introduction of evidence in attempting to establish the conspiracy contemplated by the grand jury.

"Because of the manner in which the police commissioner was described in the indictment, the removal of him as a party defendant raises serious questions as to the admissibility of evidence in support of the indictment."

CITES TIMILTY DUTIES

After reviewing history of the indictments—the first against Timilty and his aides was quashed last summer on their pleas in abatement as improperly obtained—and coming up to the second indictment and Timilty's being cleared again, Bushnell stated:

"In law and in fact, throughout the period of time covered by the indictment, the defendants . . . were completely subject to the authority of the police commissioner in the performance of their duties.

"Throughout the period covered by this indictment all policies of the Boston police department, with respect to law enforcement concerning illegal activities covered by this indictment, were wholly within the power of the police commissioner to formulate, direct, alter and supervise."

And again the Attorney-General claimed in the statement:

"Alone of the defendants presented for trial by the grand jury, the police commissioner possessed the power effectively to prevent the success of a conspiracy designed to permit illegal gambling establishments to exist and flourish.

"The grand jury . . . obviously proceeded upon the theory that adequate, effective and fair prosecution . . . required the inclusion of the police commissioner possessing such plenary authority.

"With that theory I am in full accord. In my opinion, the possibility of public benefit by the further prosecution of this indictment under all the circumstances is insufficient to require such further prosecution."

Cardinal Asks Loyalty to U. S.

Fidelity to God and loyalty to the nation and its fighting men are imperative to the welfare of America. This was the message of Cardinal O'Connell which more than 2000 members of Holy Name Societies from Boston and Roxbury parishes carried to their homes and business places today after attending the annual Holy Name service at the Cathedral of the Holy Cross.

In calling down the blessings of God on the country at war, Cardinal O'Connell said:

"One prayer should remain always on our lips—May God preserve us in His holy law; May God bless and protect our beloved land, America.

"They are two great virtues, loyalty and fidelity," he said. "Fidelity to God, His Love, His Church and to duty; loyalty to country, its laws, its Constitution and to those who fight for us in the far fields of battle and on the home front are imperative today."

In giving his benediction, he concluded, "May God bless and preserve our glorious nation."

The Cardinal was attended by Msgr. Jeremiah Minihan, chancellor of the archdiocese, and Rev. Edward D. Horan, administrator of the Cathedral. Rev. William J. Daley, head of the Catholic Charities in the archdiocese, preached the sermon.

At St. William's Church, Dorchester, Rev. Thomas F. Kilduff, O. C.D, superior of the Carmelite Order and first Dorchester boy to join that order, preached the sermon at union services attended by more than 700 men from St. William's and St. Margaret's parishes.

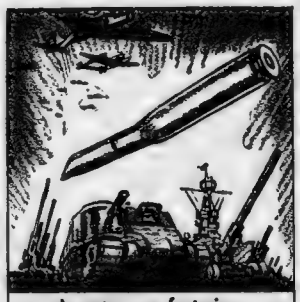
WHY PRICES GO UP

AND WHAT WE CAN DO TO KEEP THEM DOWN!

HERE'S WHAT'S HAPPENING

There are fewer peacetime goods we can buy



because our factories are making vast quantities of weapons

Many Americans are making more wages and salaries than ever before.

BUT..

If we rush to spend our money

For more than we really need of the things that are scarce

We will bid up prices and our living costs will get out of hand

SO WE MUST..

Play ball with the price ceilings and ration rules our Government has made

And put our extra dollars into safe places where they can't bid up prices

And then we will head off runaway prices— and help our own future

Here are the 7 practical things our Government wants us ALL to do now—to prevent runaway prices

1. Buy and hold War Bonds.
2. Pay willingly our share of taxes—including increased taxes—that our country needs.
3. Provide for our own and our family's future by adequate life insurance and savings.
4. Reduce our debts as much as possible.
5. Buy only what we need and make what we have last longer.
6. Follow the ration rules and price ceilings.
7. Cooperate with our Government's wage stabilization program.

You can see how each of these seven points helps to hold the line against runaway prices. Some make sure that our idle money goes into safe places—War Bonds, savings, life insurance—where it cannot bid up prices of scarce goods. Others remind us to "play ball" with the ration rules and price ceilings. And if we all do these things we will be doing our part to hold down the cost of the war. And—we help to make sure that our Post War World will be the world of our hopes come true.

68,000,000 Americans, with the help of their life insurance agents, are already doing one of these 7 things. They have also found the peace of mind, the family protection, the feeling of independence that owning life insurance brings.

It is in the interest of these 68,000,000 people—as well as the nation as a whole—that the Life Insurance Companies of America have joined together to bring you this wartime message to help prevent runaway prices.

"Ships are essential to Victory, and we shall continue our job of building them at record pace in 1944."—E. G. GRACE, president, Bethlehem Steel Company.

Bethlehem in '43 built 380 fighting and cargo ships.

Value of the year's program equivalent to 1,000 Liberty ships.

"A SHIP A DAY," with a number to spare, was the record production delivered by Bethlehem in 1943 to the United States Navy, the British Navy and the U. S. Maritime Commission. This program was the greatest in magnitude and diversity ever accomplished by a private builder in the world's history. It marked the fulfillment of a promise made by Bethlehem a year ago to build in 1943 an average of "a ship a day" of major fighting and cargo craft.

The list of ships includes aircraft carriers, cruisers, destroyers, virtually every type of fighting craft, as well as a large number of Liberty ships and other cargo vessels. In addition, Bethlehem ship repair yards converted, repaired, and serviced over 7,000 vessels, a vital contribution toward keeping the Allied fleets in fighting trim.

Measuring the program by Liberty ships, a battleship is equal to forty Liberty ships; and the value of the year's work in Bethlehem's shipbuilding division was the equivalent of over 1,000 Liberty ships.

Part of National Program—Bethlehem is permitted to publish these facts as part of our country's total program. Led by the U. S. Navy and the U. S. Maritime Commission, America's shipbuilding in 1943 has been a national triumph of production.

We salute our fellow shipbuilders and their distinguished records.

We thank our thousands of suppliers whose efforts have been essential to our contribution.

We congratulate the men and women in the Bethlehem organization, in shipyards, steel plants, factories, mines, and in every division, all of whom have had a part in this effort.

Harder Task Ahead—The year's work in Bethlehem's shipyards, steel mills and other departments has been done by 300,000 men and women. More will be needed. Already a larger shipbuilding task has been assigned to us for 1944. We shall undertake that job with the knowledge that it must be done, at maximum pace, to hasten the day of Victory.

ANTI-SEMITIC VANDALISM IN N. Y. PROBED

NEW YORK, Jan. 3 (AP)—New York police, under secret instructions from Chief Inspector John J. O'Connell, were conducting today a city-wide investigation of reported anti-Semitic vandalism.

Police said they had received a list of 90 alleged infractions ranging from attacks on Jewish persons to desecration of synagogues.

Every member of the sabotage squad was given secret assignments to investigate particular complaints. This squad, whose members usually work in cooperation with the FBI, was reported under instructions to try to determine whether anti-Semitic attacks were inspired by an organized group.

The inquiry was ordered by O'Connell yesterday after a Jewish students' committee appealed to Mayor F. H. La Guardia to halt "outrageous attack on decent and loyal citizens solely because they are Jewish."

The B'nai B'rith league states it has affidavits from 26 Jewish children who said they had been attacked or robbed by what appeared to be roving bands of youths engaged in anti-Semitic activities.

Police were instructed to serve summonses on parents of any juvenile offenders, on charges of improper guardianship.

Cupid's Pal

HARRISBURG, Pa., Jan. 3 (AP)—Employes in the Dauphin County courthouse looked for an out-of-season rush on the marriage license bureau today—the official who has paid $3711 from his own pocket for servicemen's wedding permits is leaving office.

Walter M. Mumma, register of wills in this county for the past four years, paid $2374 in 1943 alone for 869 permits, more than half his $4000 salary.

The half-dozen military establishments near Harrisburg made Mumma's undertaking expensive—he paid for about 43 per cent of all licenses issued in 1943.

Hail Hub WACs For Cairo Duty

For their work in handling the secret switchboards at the recent Cairo conference, 13 WAC telephone operators, two of them Greater Boston residents, today held special commendations.

The latter are Sergt. Gladys T. DeKarski, 35, of Bolton st., South Boston, telephone operator at Boston City Hall for 14 years, and Sergt. Mary L. Thomas of Sheffield st., Roslindale, former supervisor of the Weymouth telephone exchange.

An Associated Press dispatch from Allied Headquarters in Algiers revealed that President Roosevelt was just plain "Mr." to the WAC operators. That title was on the sign over the switchboard plug leading to the President's private line.

BACK FROM HELL . . By Burris Jenkins, Jr.

"WHEN THEY REACH THE NEXT HATCH THEY ARE MET BY A RUSH OF WATER THAT HAS ALREADY FILLED THE SHIP AS HIGH AS THE THIRD DECK..."
MACHINIST MATE 2/C KENNETH L. SCHANK OF MILWAUKEE— ONE OF THE LAST MEN OFF THE LEGENDARY U.S.S. HELENA
"THE FIRST TORPEDO BLOWS SCHANK UP AGAINST THE OVERHEAD HIS HELMET SAVING HIS LIFE—
"THE JAP PLANES COME SKIMMING THE OIL SLICK— THE MEN SPLASH AWAY FROM THE BULLETS THAT POCK THE SMOOTH WATER..."

AT SUNRISE Jap planes came over . . .

They come skimming the oil slick so low that even Ken Schank can see them through the slits of his burned and swollen eyes. And he can hear the machine guns . . .

With other exhausted men from the sunken Helena he breaks from the lashed rafts to splash and dive away from bullets that pock the smooth water, but never come close . . .

He doesn't know why they never come close . . . One by one, Zeros whine down in mock ferocity at the sight of 200 Yankee sailors fighting for survival. But the bullets splash purposely wide. Once a pilot flies so near that Schank can see the grinning teeth and the thumb-nosed gesture of contempt . . .

No, the Japs don't shoot them. That is unnecessary. They leave them, either for the sharks now knifing the water around rafts—though the sharks hesitate to strike because of the smell of oil-soaked clothing—or for their fellow Nipponese on the island of Vella LaVella, toward which the current is sweeping the Americans . . .

By mid-morning, Ken's eyes are swollen shut. So are those of many of the 20 men clinging to the raft—men who were last off the Helena the night before, men who walked into flaming water from the submerging main deck to swim hard through hot oil away from the suction that almost drew them down with the dying cruiser . . .

That seems long ago now to skinny little Ken Schank from Milwaukee . . . Constantly sick from swallowed oil and salt water, he hangs on all that day and night and the next and even the third day. Only the remembered promise shouted from a destroyer the night his ship went down sustains him—"Don't worry, boys—He calm—We'll be back—If not today, tomorrow . . ."

Ken Slips Away From Liferaft

But the destroyer doesn't come back . . .

Some of the men, Schank among them, sink into a delirious slumber. Since hours before the battle they haven't slept. And at last Ken's hands slip from the raft's lifeline . . . He is floating away in his kapok jacket when Charlie Cudmington slaps him hard on the face: "For God's sake, Ken, hang on! They'll be back for us . . ."

Yet Ken is past the point of caring, as his ears seem to ring again with the noise of the Diesels and, in his delirium, he feels himself once more in the stifling heat of the generator compartment deep down in the Helena's keel as the battle-famous cruiser makes her last dash through the night to meet the Jap fleet running down from Kolombangara . . .

It's 1 a. m. of July 6. To Machinist's Mate 2/c Schank the added noise of the guns is merely confusing, "like having your head in a 50-gallon oil drum while somebody pounds on the outside of it with hammers . . ."

The course of battle itself reaches him only through the sporadic shouts of Bill Henderson on the phones—"We got one" . . . "They're sure giving 'em hell up there" . . . "We're doing okay—we're getting 'em" . . . "We got two . . ."

First Torpedo Hits Portside

For a man in his first naval engagement, Schank, so far, is experiencing little fear. He is calm, and he would be cool if it weren't for 120 degrees temperature. Dogged down in battle condition since 10 p. m., there is little ventilation in there for men or racing motors.

Secretly, he's as proud of the Helena's incomparable record in 13 battles as if he'd been on her longer than four months—of her pet names, "Lady Butch," "The Big H," "The Happy H," and his favorite, "The Galloping Ghost of the Solomons Coast." ("Oh, but we were proud of her," is the way he puts it.)

So it's with something like surprise while tightening the inspection screws on the Diesel handdogs that he feels a sudden metallic concussion shake the ship. He yells at Motor Machinist Joe Logomarsino of New York: "We've been hit!"

Joe doesn't need to answer. He starts with the sweat coursing down his face as the first torpedo hits on the port side forward to blow Schank several feet in the air, his helmet striking the overhead, saving his life.

The eight men in the compartment bounces for seconds on the metal deck before the second and third torpedoes, almost as one explosion, tear the heart out of the Helena amidships, kill her engineers, and rupture all lights, power and communication, leaving her dead in the water . . .

Schank staggers to his feet. He finds the flashlight on a cord around his neck, and in its comforting beam sees Joe still staring in amazement through beads of perspiration. "Come on," yells Schank, "let's get out!"

They make for the escape hatch and Joe, being the tallest, goes first to loosen the dogs. Schank follows, and then the others, but when they reach the next hatch they are met by a rush of water that has already filled the ship as high as the third deck. There is nothing to do but attempt an escape through the scuttle—an emergency exit like a stove pipe with a ladder inside.

Friendly Natives Come to Meet Yanks

Reaching the second deck they climb another scuttle to the main deck, and there come out on a scene as shocking as the corpse of a murdered sweetheart—the twisted ,agonized wreckage of the dying Helena.

Over her motionless body, Japanese star-shells burn like death candles, as nearby the battle continues between enemy shore guns and the remaining U. S. fleet left of the Japanese force has fled—but not before two cruisers and three destroyers officially went down before the guns of the "Lady Butch" to put a bloody period to her deathless history.

The main deck has sunk 17 feet to the water-line, and most of the rafts and survivors are in the water when Schank walks overside with all his 22 years' life savings ($34) in his dungarees to thrash his way to the raft and what, in the days to come, seems like slow death from thirst and exhaustion—until the evening of the 8th . . .

It is dusk as the vagrant currents slowly sweep the shipwrecked men in two groups toward the Japheld island. In the smaller group of the 60-odd, Ken Schank, half-conscious, staggers over the coral reefs to the beach as friendly natives come to meet them in the water.

In one respect, Ken is more fortunate than others. He still wears his shoes. The feet of some are cut to pulp before they reach the shore.

In the protecting darkness natives pour cocoanut milk down parched throats. The men revive enough to comprehend broken-English whispers from the natives: "Japs that way—you go that way—hurry . . ."

Farther up the beach a group of 100 or more survivors, including most of the officers, retreat under the direction of natives to higher ground on another part of the island away from the Japs.

(This higher ground proves later to be the difference between health and malaria. None there contract the disease. In Schank's group, 40 of the 60 develop malaria nine days after the rescue.)

Escape from the island comes seven days later "in the dead of night under a full moon" when the destroyer that promised to come back does come back . . .

In a daring raid 50 miles into Jap-controlled waters the destroyer sends Higgins boats by secret signals to both beaches and takes off without incident some 160 Americans and one Jap. The Jap is a Zero pilot captured by natives . . .

Restored to a robust 130 pounds by his diet of green bananas, cocoanuts, native roots and a bit of emergen[cy] chow that floated ashore, [Schank] has the doubtful honor o[f] guarding the captured and bl[ind]olded Jap on the way out in [the] Higgins boat.

Schank [de]scribes him as "a little sku[n] lucky to be alive . . ." After [a] twilight on the run out, Zeros [came] to sunk the destroyer with bo[mbs], but through evasive action [and] the hits close. Anyway, the sur[vivors] are too full of hot soup a[nd] coffee and cigarette smoke [to] worry. The destroyer drops t[hem] into foxholes on Tulagi that n[ight] because the Japs are still fur[ther] only after them; but it's malaria[l] did not Japs that puts Ken Sch[ank] in a hospital for weeks afterwa[rd] and sends him home four m[onths] ago weighing 118 pounds. Now, pronounced fit for duty, he's go[ing] back.

"To h[ell] with it. There'll never [be] honest," he says, "I don't [mind] it. There'll never [be] Hel[en] . . . they don't [make] 'em [like] her."

4th Term? Tell Us Now, Mr. President

WILL President Roosevelt run for indefinite continuation in office? Is he laying plans for indefinite continuation in office?

That is the immediate and most vital question that confronts the American people today on the home front.

The President from time to time over the radio and in special messages to Congress freely gives us his opinion on all kinds of subjects.

He also, quite often, tells us what his foreign-policy plans are for the future.

But he remains mysteriously silent on a subject that has produced great political confusion and bitterness in a time when we should be united as we have never been.

This subject is:

"Are you, Mr. President, going to run for a fourth term or are you not?

"Are you playing fair with your countrymen?"

NONE OF OUR Presidents has remained so strangely silent on continuance for more than even the traditional two terms in office as has President Roosevelt.

Washington refused a third term because he believed that no man was "indispensable."

Thomas Jefferson in a letter to John Taylor in 1805, said:

"The service for 8 years with a power to remove at the end of the first four comes nearly to my principle as corrected by experience. The danger is that re-election through life should become habitual and election for life follow that."

Both Madison and Monroe were offered third-term nominations, but refused.

Andrew Jackson in six messages to Congress urged a constitutional amendment "to limit the service of the Chief Magistrate to a single term of either four or six years."

William McKinley in 1901 said:

"I will say now, once and for all, expressing a long-settled conviction, that I not only am not and will not be a candidate for a third term but would not accept a nomination for it if it were tendered me."

Calvin Coolidge refused a third-term nomination in 1927—nearly a year before the meeting of the convention—in his famous "I do not choose to run" letter.

ALL THESE PRESIDENTS took the American people into their confidence on a THIRD term.

But President Roosevelt has not only refused to follow the frank and open actions of Washington, Jefferson, Madison, Monroe, Jackson, McKinley and Coolidge in publicly stating their views on this serious question but he has refused to state his position on a still more serious matter than these great Americans had to deal with—and that is a FOURTH term.

It may be that the American people want President Roosevelt for a fourth or a fifth term.

It may be that they would like him to remain in the White House indefinitely.

And maybe they wouldn't.

They have a RIGHT to know.

And the President is in duty bound to tell the people NOW his intentions concerning a fourth term and his plans—if they are not secret and sinister plans—for the perpetuation of his dictatorship.

Let's Reverse Lend-Lease

PREMIER STALIN of Soviet Russia is reported to have offered the suggestion that the newsprint shortage in the United States, which has resulted in serious curtailment of newspapers and magazines, could be relieved by shipments of pulpwood from Russia.

According to the suggestion attributed to Premier Stalin, there are ample supplies of pulpwood, suitable for newsprint manufacture, in Russia.

His obvious interest in any transaction involving shipment and sale of this commodity, which Russia has in such abundance, to the United States is in building up post-war exchange for Russian use in the purchase of American capital goods.

But why has this interesting and practicable possibility not been explored and exploited as a matter of lend-lease IN REVERSE?

The United States has shipped great quantities of war goods to Russia.

Why cannot the many American and Allied ships which are carrying these vital war goods to Russia return to the United States laden with a commodity which Russia has in abundance and which is vital to the continued functioning of essential American institutions?

While Premier Stalin shrewdly proposes such a transaction as a basis for post-war RUSSIAN advantage, why are not our American statesmen equally shrewd in pursuing and pressing our present and obvious AMERICAN advantage and interest?

May the hinges of friendship never rust
Or the wings of love lose a feather.—DEAN RAMSEY.

ABOVE IS A GOOD TOAST. Why don't you use it next time instead of just saying "Here's How!" or "Here's Looking At You"? It was William Hazlitt who said: "To be capable of steady friendship and lasting love are the two great proofs, not only of goodness of heart but strength of mind."

BOREDOM has a tendency to make some people seriously ill. So states a medical authority. No doubt the gentleman is right. Many women are sick and don't know why. It is because they are bored with their husbands. Some men are nervous and lack energy and think it is because they have been working too hard or are getting old. But they are just bored. Even men with nice homes, charming wives and lovely children suffer from boredom. This happens mostly to men who marry after thirty. Up to their marriage they have lived a gay and carefree life in the city. After marriage they move out to the suburbs where it is peaceful and quiet. It is too much peace and quiet that bores them. Our Men & Mules and Horses & Women Departments are both doing research on this matter with a hope of finding something that will make wives less bored with their husbands and husbands less bored with their homes.

SIDELIGHTS: Whenever anybody says he lives in Joliet, Ill., somebody invariably says something about the penitentiary being in that town. Joliet should change its name. The name of Sing Sing, N. Y., was changed to Ossining because the residents became weary of listening to the corny cracks that were inspired when they said they lived in Sing Sing . . . Why don't they have two-way radios on trains? Might prevent some accidents? . . . Now is a good time to read Jules Verne's "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea" again. I'm going to read it tonight.

BABUSHKAS: Recently having been asked for "a man's angle" on whether or not Babushkas were becoming, I said I didn't know what a Babushka was and would have to have a picture of one before commenting. Now a young woman of Chicago tells me she has designed a new model Babushka. It attracted the attention of a department store buyer, and now the young lady, though she never designed anything before, has received orders to make Babushkas for that department store and several others. Only these Babushkas will be called "snapper bonnets." The young lady didn't send me a picture of a Babushka so I still don't know what it is. Anyway, I thought I would mention this as maybe your wife has some talent as a designer and might possibly originate something that would make her so much money she could have you give up your job and keep you for a pet.

PASSING BY: Agnes De Mille. Highly successful dance director. Handles direction of dances of the two New York hits "Oklahoma" and "One Touch of Venus." She is the daughter of William C. De Mille, and the niece of Cecil B. De Mille. Her maternal grandfather was Henry George, the single tax expert.

BRIDES, ETC: Sixty years of married life in the same house. That's the record of Mr. and Mrs. A. Browning of Sussex, England. Yes, ma'am Mrs. Browning is still living in the same house over the threshold of which she was carried as a bride. Did you carry your bride over the threshold? I did, when we finally got a house of our own. When first married we lived in a hotel and I thought it might make us a little conspicuous if I carried my bride over the hotel threshold into the lobby.

ALMOST CONFIDENTIAL: A United States expert says after the war television sets will be generally available to the public at from $200 to $700 each. John L. Baird, British television pioneer, has announced he is prepared to manufacture a television set selling for $60. This set will get anything any television set can and will have a picture 6 by 4 inches . . . Writes a Bostonian: "Most women are either too careless or too ignorant to take proper care of rayon stockings. Such an attitude can cost a hard working husband a lot of money. I demand that my wife go to a rayon expert and learn how to take care of stockings of that material. And now I see to it that the little lady does take good care of her rayons. I have no money to throw away."

My Day

By Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, Sunday, Jan. 2—The other day Mr. Vaclav Palecek came to me with a letter of introduction from Sir Stafford Cripps. Sir Stafford and Lady Cripps have a great interest in a world youth organization, the "World Youth Council." Young people from all over the world are constantly passing through London. They may be soldiers or sailors, or civilians, but they come from many lands.

Lady Cripps has felt, as I have, that it is better to try to understand them and help them to understand the world in which they live. The organization has lately been given a home. This house is the gift of a friend whose son was killed in the war and it will be a living memorial to him.

HERE THERE will be an opportunity for young people to meet and to talk with other young people, and to invite older people. It may become a center from which many things may be accomplished by the youth of many nations of the future.

I sent a few things the other day to Greek War Relief. They were baby sets which had been sent to me by a very kind lady with the request that they be given to some needy children.

THEY WILL SERVE a good purpose in clothing and warming babies, who might otherwise shiver through these winter months. There have been no clothing replacements in Greece since the Nazi occupation.

One can buy in the black market, but the prices are fantastic. One hundred dollars for a pair of shoes, $80 for a sweater, $2666 for a man's suit, I am told. The Greek War Relief Association has set itself a goal. It wants to collect twenty million garments. So far it reports with gratitude that almost everything received has been in excellent condition and "wearable, whole, clean and warm."

HOLLYWOOD, Jan 3—The excited blonde going around town with her fingers crossed and with a four-leafed clover in her pocket is Helen Gilbert, and here's the reason: Tim Whelan is testing her for the femme lead opposite Frank Sinatra in "Mr. Cinderella" at RKO. There's not a bobby socks babe in the world who wouldn't gladly trade places with Helen. My crooning boy friend got in town a few days ago, reported to the studio and then went to Palm Springs for a rest.

Helen Gilbert

A picture with Frankie would be the break of breaks for Helen. She's been around Hollywood several years, seen mostly in M-G-M pictures, but she never made much of a splash. Helen, a cellist before crashing the movies, was once married to a musician named Bakaleinikoff and later to Atty. Seymour Chotiner. They parted several times, but I believe they are reconciled now.

PROBABLY the last deal Jack Warner made in 1943 was the purchase of "Monsieur Lambertier" for Barbara Stanwyck and Paul Henreid. Maybe you won't know the play by that name. When it was produced on the stage many years ago it was called "Jealousy" and starred Fay Bainter and John Halliday. As I remember it, there were only three people in the cast. Jack's deal was made with Louis Verneuil, the author. That reminds me, Verneuil has written a story on Sarah Bernhardt which I hear is terrific. I always felt Bette Davis is the one to play the Divine Sarah.

MARGUERITE CHAPMAN, who is really a pretty girl, gets a new contract at Columbia with a nice raise and at the same time the femme lead in "He Had to Be a Hero." This was originally "Who's Who," about the editor of a social magazine, and it has been hinted as a possible Cary Grant vehicle.

CHATTER IN HOLLYWOOD: Fred Astaire reports on the M-G-M lot today and they are putting down the red carpet for him. In place of a dressing room Fred gets a little building, complete with a suite of offices and a special room for his dance rehearsals. In fact, the sign over the door reads: "Fred Astaire's Rehearsal Hall." Also, because Astaire frequently forgets to stop work for lunch, there's a special alarm clock built into the living room that lets out a shrill blast promptly at noon every day.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD Collected at Random: Clark Gable has had four dates with Kay Williams within the week; Judy Garland not only has an ear infection but the flu and had to remain in the hospital over the New Year; Betty Grable's birthday was a week before Christmas and Harry James gifted her with some gorgeous jewelry; Mrs. Jules Stein will be a grandmother (the youngest and most beautiful in our town!) when her son Jerry's wife has a baby in February; Ava Gardner spent New Year's Eve with Willis Goldbeck; Olivia De Havilland cooked dinner for two lads in uniform—Lew Ayres and Bill Bakewell; Sonja Henie does a hula number on skates which they say is a sensation; Senator Happy Chandler was a guest at the Abbott and Costello broadcast; June Haver acted as hostess for Mickey Rooney's New Year's Eve party. Mickey was on a camp appearance and didn't get home until late, so she did all the shopping and planning; Deanna Durbin's escort to the New Year's festivities was Henry Willson, an old friend; George Raft will leave on his camp tour as soon as he recovers from the flu in New York.

NEW YORK, Jan. 3—A good story about Bruce Cabot in Africa has missed the front pages . . . The meat shortage is due to become much worse early this year . . . They all stand to make heaps of coin . . . Mrs. Jack Warner is having her portrait painted by Dali . . . Xavier Cugat is in a mood over Sally Moody, the starlet . . . Georgie Gibbs, who skyrocketed "Sho, Sho, Baby" to hit parade rating by singing it six times on the Jimmy Durante radio show, won't profit by it on the discs.

JERRY BERGEN, the comic, has broken his engagement to his California heartthrob. As a switch on the old routine, he sent the ring back to the jeweler . . . Marion Hutton will wind up her six-week vaudeville tour by checking in at Twentieth Century-Fox . . . Annabella is in town—at the Pierre—all set for her try at Broadway . . . The Ted Gaillards (Pat Coffin) have a new baby boy, Christopher, at Doctors Hospital . . .

Star Shine By Sidney Skolsky

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 3—All studios issue "call sheets" daily. A "call sheet" is a mimeographed sheet of paper which tells what a motion picture, that is in the process of being manufactured, has on its schedule for the day. Therefore, by looking at the "call sheets", you can tell what is shooting at a studio, and who are working on the various sets.

Dorothy Lamour

For example, let us look at the "call sheet" for "The Road To Utopia". We know that Bing Crosby, Bob Hope and Dorothy Lamour are in the picture, but we don't know if they are working this particular day and on what sound stage.

Up at the top of the sheet is the picture's title, its number (every picture is numbered), the name of the director, the date, and the sound stage. The director is Hal Walker, and this is the first time he has received this billing. He was formerly an assistant director.

Next comes the actual call. It says: "Ready to work at 9 a. m.—Bing Crosby, Bob Hope, Dottie Lamour and extra players." There it is. But don't believe that 9 a. m. means the players just start then. They have been up since about five, getting dressed, having breakfast, driving to the studio and being made up and costumed. Now you can understand why actors and actresses, when they are working in a picture, go to bed early.

Next on the call sheet is an item that says, "Stand-Ins for 8 a. m." This means that the stand-ins for Crosby, Hope and Lamour must be on the set an hour earlier than the principals. This is so the camera crew can "line up" the first shot and have the cameras ready to turn when the actors and the director arrive.

Then comes an item which says, "One fog on set at 10 a. m." It means that they'll be needing a fog for the sequence, and it is a memo to the plumbing department to have a "fog crew" on the set at the appointed time.

WHEN I ARRIVED, the fog was present, hanging all over the set. Director Hal Walker was giving instructions to his assistant.

Dottie Lamour was in her portable dressing room writing a letter. Bing and Bob were sitting chatting with Barney Dean. Barney is always on a Bob Hope set. He just sits around and watches and when there is a scene that needs a gag or a piece of business, Barney goes into a huddle with Hope, and the result is generally one of those lines that sounds like an ad lib.

And there you have the "call sheet" and how it comes into actuality on the set.

MONDAY MUSINGS: What about calling 1944 "V-Year," "V-," of course, "for Victory?" . . . One thing wrong about it might be the ordinary American's dislike for anticipating good fortune, the cross-your-fingers attitude . . . And there certainly is too much of the unpredictable in everyday life to be audibly optimistic about anything . . . For instance, who would have suspected that the new Boston building regulations, cutting down the seating capacity of nightclubs, hotel restaurants and theaters would have contributed toward the most good-natured New Year's Eve celebration in history?

THE RESTRICTION of night club capacity cut down attendance as much as 25 per cent in some glitter-spots . . . But because people, for a New Year's Eve change, were not forced to intertwine themselves into an imitation of a mess of cold slaw, and because they, for a change, had room enough to move about and circulate with elbowroom, the annual revel was almost without violent incident . . . There was no brawl . . . There were few fights . . . None was serious. And business, with fewer customers than the walls would allow, was much better . . . Eddie Davis, boss of the Fox and Hounds, was speaking for most of his colleagues when he termed it the "best New Year's Eve possible"—considering the war.

THAT CELEBRATED WHITE MINK coat which Esther Dorothy, the Boston fashion-setter and designer, nursed into being over the six-year period since she discovered a lone male, white mink in a litter at a North Canadian mink ranch, was easily the fashion highlight of New Year's Eve . . . Miss Dorothy was wearing the coat in public for the first time . . . It has adorned the shoulders of a few models, and has been displayed—under constant guard—in several show-cases . . . But when Miss Dorothy ventured out for the New Year's welcome at the Satire Room, the precious garment was being worn casually for the first time . . . Esther, who bought more wine in Boston New Year's Eve than any other person wit hthe exception of Michael Todd, seemed to be having nothing but fun . . . And the coat, worth much more than the unofficial price tag of $25,000 which has been placed on it, lay carelessly against the back of Miss Doherty's chair most of the night.

HAVING MENTIONED PRODUCER TODD'S role as a wine-buyer as the New Year came in, it should be told that the event was the New Year's party he gave the cast of his "Mexican Hayride" company at the Ritz' dining room . . . The party marked the first time an individual had taken over the Ritz' second floor for a private party . . . It was very informal and entertaining, that party, and among the "outsiders" present was Dick Powell, the movie star, and some newspaper people.

PETITE JUNE HAVOC stole the entertainment honors, we thought . . . She was the instrument of the best bit of repartee of the evening, moreover . . . In introducing Harry Levant, Mr. Todd's musical director, little June made it known that the "Mexican Hayride" company regarded "Oscar Levant as our Harry's brother, instead of vice versa" . . . Harry Levant responded quickly to the fond introduction . . . "Yes," said he, "and Gypsy Rose Lee is just June Hovac's sister" . . . It was a huge laugh . . . June Hovac is not yet the "name" that her sister, Louise Hovac, has become as "Gypsy Rose Lee" . . . But June has more talent than Gypsy, in this opinion . . . (Except, perhaps, as a writer) . . . And—prediction—she'll be a reigning star before 1945!

The Road Ahead

. . . will not be an easy road. For many, 1944 will be a sad and lonely road. But it is up to us to make it the road to complete Victory, which includes not only a military triumph over our enemies, but also a just and lasting peace, and a satisfactory solution of the critical problems of the post-war era.

That this war will end is a certainty. That the United Nations will be victorious is also a certainty. When this victory will come is not known to man; but the problems to be solved after victory are known to all of us, affect all of us, and must be solved by the cooperative efforts of all of us.

If we desire the continuation of democracy in fact as well as in name, if we believe in free enterprise, now is the time to think and to plan for their perpetuation. Those who would destroy democracy and the system of free enterprise are thinking and are planning; they will be ready and glad to take over if the rest of us are not ready.

MONDAY MORNING MAILBAG— American girls still see to it that they keep attractive and feminine in spite of hardships in England where war-time facilities provide for little more than a spartan existence.

In a letter just received from Patricia Bayne of Dedham, overseas with the Red Cross, she tells of going to London every week on her day off "to get a shampoo and wave and see a show. Over here the shows begin at 5:30 so you still have an evening ahead of you when it lets out."

"Today," she continues, "we are busy with plans for Christmas in the Red Cross clubs. It is so important to have a full program at that time in order to make the boys forget their homesickness."

Pat is the daughter of the William Baynes and here at home was constantly active in Junior League and Vincent Club affairs. Pretty and peppy, she was a favorite of the stag line at every society party.

FRIENDS of Mrs. Philip Daniels, the former Helen Pleasanton of Brookline, will be interested to hear that she is devoting some of her boundless energy and executive ability to club afairs in Mt. Lebanon, Pa., where she has lived since last summer. Helen used to be a leader in younger set social activities here at home and now she writes, "I am having a very good time at the Newcomers Club here. We meet twice a month for lunch followed by either bridge or a program. Much to my amazement they asked me to give a reading last summer and liked it so much, elected me program chairman. That is my greatest diversion these maidless days." She goes on to tell about a South American luncheon she organized and about all the war work the club does.

Heart of the Pet

Vitamin Rich

By MARTHA LEE

THOSE WHO WERE wise enough last fall to buy as much of their winter's potato needs as they could properly store may have the comfort now of knowing that come what may in rationing or scarcity of food, it won't be too bad with plenty of nutritious potatoes on the family table.

In addition to being a good protein food, we now know that potatoes are an outstanding source of Vitamin C, an important source of available iron for red blood, and a good source of two other vitamins—G and B-1, as well as furnishing healthful, regulating bulk and neutralizing akallinity.

So make potatoes a part of your daily menus. In cooking them, use all the standard old family favorites, but wartime eating will be more fun if you try these new ones, too.

SCALLOPED POTATOES

6 medium-sized potatoes
Flour Salt and pepper
2 tbsp. butter or margarine
3 cups rich milk

Pare potatoes and slice thin; place ½ in buttered baking dish, sprinkle with salt and pepper, and dredge with flour. Repeat, add butter to hot milk and pour over potatoes. Bake, covered, in moderately hot oven (375 deg. F.) for ½ hour, then uncover and bake 10 to 15 minutes longer, or until a delicately browned crust has formed on top. If milk boils over, uncover and bake at lower temperature (350 deg. F.). One tablespoon chopped onion may be added to milk for flavor. Makes 6 servings.

For a personality luncheon, try potato cutlets. They're crisp and crunchy outside—rich and creamy inside.

POTATOES 'N' BOLOGNA

½ lb. bologna (frankfurts give the same flavor)
3 medium potatoes
2 tbsp. minced green pepper
1 tsp. salt ¼ tsp. pepper
3 tbsp. butter 3 tbsp. flour
2 to 3 cups milk (enough to cover)

POTATOES 'N' BOLOGNA

Peel and cut potatoes in small cubes or slices and cut bologna into half-inch pieces. Arrange alternate layers of cubed potatoes and bologna, bits of green pepper, flour sifted with salt and pepper and dots of butter in small casserole. When all ingredients are used, pour milk over to just cover. Bake 1½ hours in a moderate oven (350 deg. F.). Makes 4 servings.

POTATO CUTLETS

4 large potatoes
1 cup (more or less) ham or chicken tidbits
1 cup thick cream sauce
1 tsp. minced parsley
Salt and pepper to taste
1 egg 1 tbsp. water
1 tsp. grated onion

Scrub and boil potatoes in water to cover until tender. Cool, slip off skins and cut into small cubes. Combine with left-over ham or chicken tidbits, cream sauce and seasonings, stirring gently to blend and coat potato cubes with sauce. Cool until easily handled. Then shape large spoonfuls into cutlets and roll in fine, dry bread or cracker crumbs. Dip into beaten egg diluted with cold water and coat again with crumbs. Fry in leftover ham, bacon or chicken fat to a rich golden brown and serve very hot. Makes 4 servings.

Note: This is a perfect use for left-over creamed or scalloped potatoes.

Beauty

Bracing for Throat, Neck

Fashion

By ANNICE BRINK

NOW THAT you've crossed the threshold of the new year . . . with resolves and pledges . . . about this and that . . . tucked away in the secret recesses of your heart and mind . . . it is high time to put into practice those promises about having beauty for keeps.

Which just isn't there . . . unless you are graciously-throated . . . unless you have an elegantly poised throat and neck to serve as a connecting beauty link between your face and your figure . . . For, nothing is so devastating to a woman's charms as a lined and flabby throat.

But . . . and this is a BIG BUT . . . do you care for your throat as you do for your face? Or do you just dilly-daily . . . and, wait, and wait . . . while flabbiness sets in . . . because oil glands are less numerous and less active in the skin of your throat . . . and permit your neck to reveal with brutal frankness . . . the moving years of age?

Are you one of a host of misguided women . . . who shove aside repeated warnings about a crepey throat . . . and forget the necessity of daily care of your throat? To keep it young and firm . . . you can't wait until you see the first faint lines . . . which mark the approach of a crepey throat . . . You must start NOW . . . and I do mean NOW. It is never too soon to begin a course of preventive treatment.

THE MOST IMPORTANT LINE to a woman's beauty . . . is the firm, rounded line of a swan-like throat . . . the most revealing barometer of her age . . . To keep it young and lineless . . . a herbal throat and neck blend will tighten and strengthen the muscles and tissues of the throat. Lovely Olivia de Havilland has an elegantly poised throat and neck . . . the kind any artist would be thrilled to paint on canvas.

MUST NOURISH THE THROAT

For that long, graceful sweep from the chin over the throat . . . revealing a firm and rounded contour . . . most essential to any woman who wishes to retain her loveliness . . . you must use safeguards . . . and nourish your throat as you do your face.

There is a special herbal throat and neck blend . . . which promises firming as well as nourishment . . . to tighten and strengthen the muscles and tissues of the throat and keep its skin smooth . . . yours for the asking . . . It offers a stimulating and lubricating treatment . . . which will not only help to correct sagging muscles . . . but act on the condition of the throat lines.

Your facial beauty can't afford to be perched upon flaccid, tired, inactive throat muscles . . . And, if you but act . . . you can do SO much to relieve this condition.

For the name of this bracing herbal blend for throat and neck, phone the Beauty Dept., LIBerty 4000, except the week-end, or write, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

BUILT ON CASUAL easy lines . . . traditional of fine tailoring . . . is this season's suit favorite of muted tones . . . of gold and tan in shepherd check . . . which Isabel Kane, of the United Airlines' models. It is a smart costume under a fur coat . . . with a career and social status far above its simplicity. Dramatic color accent in varied accessories . . . spike this outfit for fashionable daytime wear . . . in any and all smart habitats.

Fur Coats for Spring

By BETTINA BEDWELL

SOME of the fashion folk have at last stopped pretending that spring, as it is practiced by the weather in these United States, is a time of the "ethereal mildness" Shakespeare wrote about. They admit that spring can be cold and as disagreeable to a thinly-clad girl as a headwaiter to a hobo.

So we are going to have spring fur coats. These are welcome, as they are a lot lighter and gayer looking than the winter fur coat, while at the same time they keep you warm.

One such is the delightful coat from Alfred Rainer, famed European furrier now in this country, which is sketched. It is made of hair seal, a short-haired fur with a speckled gray to black-to-white color range. Mr. Rainer makes this coat knee-length with a flare from the shoulders, and pipes the yoke with vivid green wool. Buttons are fancy bone buttons, and there are deep set-in pockets.

Pronunciation Tip

That word we use so much these days . . . COUPON . . . is pronounced KOO-pon (not KEW-pon). —MRS. BEECKMAN

Wife Complains

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

A WIFE who says she doesn't dare trust herself to say what she feels for fear her letter would burn up the rest of the mail, lets it go with "I'm simply furious!"

The Furious Lady says so much is being done for married servicemen that never again will they become domesticated.

To bolster up her argument on the unfitness of servicemen to be inducted into home life after the war is over, the Furious Lady sends me a clipping which states that three dozen glamorous Broadway showgirls got together recently to open a Date Bureau for morale—for whose morale they wouldn't say.

"The canteens are wonderful," one of the showgirls commented with praise that might be called faint. "But it's not exactly cozy when well-meaning citizens keep popping around saying 'Move along now,' in a nice way."

Going at their aims in a businesslike way, the girls have drawn up a form for servicemen desiring dates. The first question is likely to send Johnny Doughboy rushing to the high timber. It is "How much money do you intend to spend?" "What kind of a girl do you like—thin, stout, blonde, brunette, red-headed, intelligent or dumb?"

Four character references and the age of the prospctive beau are demanded, but what seems an eye opener is the demand to know the soldier boy's father's occupation. This latter query looks as if the young ladies were not passing up any chances to meet millionaires in privates' or gobs' clothing.

The last question has got up Furious Lady's dander.

Girl's Teeth Marks Clue to Mad Slasher

CHICAGO, Jan. 3 (AP)—A slasher who police assumed to be a maniac set upon a 27-year-old woman last night in the laundry of her home, beat her head against the wall until she became unconscious, tied her to a washing machine, and then ripped her body with a razor blade.

The victim, whose condition was termed fair today by hospital attendants, was Miss Florine Henry, a comptometer operator in the Federal Reserve Bank.

Miss Henry told police that all she was able to see of her assailant was a "hairy hand," and gave this account of the attack:

The man clapped a hand over her mouth as she was ascending the stairs from the laundry, and dragged her back. He beat her head against the wall, slashed her with a razor across the abdomen and the upper part of her body, and then tied her unconscious to the washing machine.

She was found by her sister, Pauline, who summoned detectives Charles Egan and Raymond Collins. The officers, terming the assailant a maniac, said Miss Henry had bitten him on the hand, but could not identify him. She was not raped, hospital physicians said.

Lever Bros. Win Soap Patent Suit

The United States Circuit Court of Appeals in Richmond, Va., has held that two patent claims of Lever Brothers Co., involving important principles in soap manufacture, are valid, and that these claims have been infringed on by Procter & Gamble Co., it was revealed in a decision made public today.

The litigation grew out of Procter & Gamble's change in 1940 from the process long used in making Ivory soap to a different process by which its "new" Ivory has since been made. Judge Armisted M. Dobie reversed judgment of the U. S. District Court of Maryland.

'THE GAY ILLITERATE'

Louella Parsons' New Book

MUST FOR MOVIE FANS

By BENJAMIN DECASSERES

"Gossip, like death and taxes, is with us to stay."—Louella O. Parsons in "The Gay Illiterate."

Louella O. Parsons, whom millions of persons daily read in her International News Service syndicated Hollywood column, is the Lady Boswell of the picture world. Boswell, you know, put down day by day for years all the doings and sayings of old Sammy Johnson.

Well, that's what Louella does. She is the historian of all the stars from John Bunny to baby what's-her-name.

SLAPS SELF

She has written a book, "The Gay Illiterate" (Doubleday-Doran), which, although it has only 194 pages, is buoyant and revealing on every page. Louella O. Parsons cannot be dull. She's got a style that is condensed, vivid, electric.

And, besides that, the book while

LOUELLA PARSONS
Writes Her Memoirs

naturally light because its subject is glamour-land is nevertheless a real confessional document, for Louella not only gives us the big and little virtues and defects of all the picture people she has met for 30 years (she's been writing of the flickers for that length of time) but she stands off and socks herself once in a while.

As, for instance, where she says, speaking of her childhood, that her "sense of drama" made her quite a fibber and that "cold reason forces me to admit that I was not my favorite little girl—either in or out of fiction."

Anyhow, Louella (born Oettinger) came to light in this world in Freeport, Ill. (Year hidden in real feminine modesty). She says she is called the "gay illiterate" because in the hurry of typing and of getting her "scoops" on the wire she has been guilty of mixed metaphors, typographical errors, split infinitives and other "boners."

TRIBUTE TO CHIEF

But judging from her well-written book, I'll wager all my butter points to Groucho's mustache that Louella O. Parsons (who, by the way, has fearful tantrums sometimes) knows at sight the difference between a Greek conjunction and a Norwegian diphthong.

She pays this tribute her chief, William Randolph Hearst:

"Whether you agree with his policies or not, you must admit he has great prophetic vision. Long before the tragedy at Pearl Harbor, Mr. Hearst had warned and warned America of the potential peril from Japan. He strongly advised against admitting so many of the vermin into our own California. He was criticised at the time as an alarmist—but now we know too truly and too bitterly how right he has been all along.

Explaining her vocation as daily historian of Hollywood and her insistance on names, names, names she brilliantly writes:

"As long as personalties make news it is natural to be interested in what makes them tick as human beings. I wasn't around when the good housewives of the Nile were chatting over the back-dykes about Cleo and Anthony—or when the ladies of the French court were embroidering the legend of Du Barry.

PARADE OF STARS

"But I have lived in an era that has produced a whole industry of heroes and heroines to talk about and admire, to laugh about and cry over, to thrill to or weep for their weaknesses—the long parade of movie stars . . . I've seen them come and go—from Valentino to Clark Gable—and I have spent 30 years as a chronicler of their lives because people wanted to read about them!"

Of her close friend, Marion Davies, she says:

"The most glamorous and loved of all Hollywood hostesses is Marion Davies. Marion's annual masquerade parties were the social events of each season. The great of the musical, literary and social worlds flocked around Marion—but her tastes have always been simple, and I think she enjoyed best the smaller Sunday parties of friends around the swimming pool or around the dinner table at her Beverly Hills home and later at her famous Colonial Beach house. Rudy Valentino, Charles Chaplin, John Barrymore, Mary and Doug, the lovely, ill-fated Alma Rubens, Harry D'Arrast and Harry Crocker belonged to the coterie who met several times a week at Marion's house."

I got a great kick out of "The Gay Illiterate" from 7 to 12 one evening. So I'll top off this review with his bit by Louella herself:

"I love the spotlight as ardently as though I were a combination of Duse, Kate Smith and Dorothy Thompson. My lack of outstanding talent has never dimmed my enthusiasm—except when I saw myself for the first time on the screen. That was too much—much too much!"

"I wuz thinkin'...."

by IZZY ORT

Judgin' from me past experiences wid New Year's resolutions, I wuz thinkin' dat dis year I had better be a little easier on yers trooly jess to see if I kin git past da first three hours. Ennyhoo, here's me program fer 1944, and unless I'm alone or with somebody, on every day except weakdays and Sundays, I hereby resolve to:

1. Cut out drinkin'—chasers.
2. Stop tellin'lies (except to me wife).
3. Start buyin' me own cigars (honest injun).
4. Stop tearing up me mutuel tickets before da official results has been announced.
5. Keep dese resolutions wid all da strength I got, unless (1) da liquor is too raw, (2) I'm talkin' to da tax collector, (3) two-for-a-nickel smokes git scarce, (4) me horse falls and breaks his neck, and (5) all resolutions off when Adolf takes da hull.

And now, folks, I want to thank you fer da super-patronage yoo all gave me Grill and El Tropico during da Holiday season, coz yoo all really kept me place hummin' from openin' to closin' night after night. Witch only goes to show dat when ya give da public da best in entertainment at da lowest of prices, dey appreciate it. Ort's Grill and El Tropico, Essex Street in downtown Boston, Mass. Advt.

AP Seeks Clarity in Ruling

NEW YORK, Jan. 3 (AP)—The Associated Press filed in United States District Court today a proposed form of judgment in the government's anti-trust suit which counsel said would clarify and make more specific previous suggestions by the government.

A special court ruled Oct. 6 in a 2-to-1 decision that the news co-operative's bylaws "in their present form" violate the anti-trust laws. Before entering its final judgment, the court asked both parties to submit proposals which, in effect, would be interpretions of what the court meant in its decision.

The Department of Justice submitted its proposed form of judgment, findings of fact and conclusions of law Nov. 12.

The AP's counter-proposals, filed today, would make numerous changes in phraseology, including specific designation of the by-law regarding admission of members which the court has held is illegal.

AP counsel said the counter-proposals were submitted to conform with the court's opinion but made it clear at the same time that this did not mean that the AP agreed with the opinion or that the proposals were to be taken as representing the position that AP might take on an appeal to the Supreme Court.

The next step is for the court to hand down its final ruling. Both sides have 60 days thereafter in which to appeal.

PEGGY FRENCH, of "The Doughgirls," in the last week of its engagement at the Colonial.

NINA VARELA as the Grand Duchess in "The Student Prince," opening tonight at the Opera House.

Tonight

BOSTON OPERA HOUSE . . . "THE STUDENT PRINCE," perennially young operetta adapted by Dorothy Connelly and with Sigmund Romberg's lilting score, opens with Everett Marshall in the leading role. Nineteen years old, it has just had a 17-week run on Broadway. In the cast are Frank Hornaday, Laurel Hurley, Detmar Poppen, Nina Varela, Percy Helton, Gloria Hope, William Pringle, Sylvia Russell and Raymond Jacquemot.

Continuing

SHUBERT . . . "MEXICAN HAYRIDE," Michael Todd's stunning musical extravaganza, with Bobby Clark, June Havoc, George Givot, Wilbur Evans, Corinna Mura heading a cast of more than 180. It has Cole Porter music, Hassard Short staging, and magnificent settings and costumes by George Jenkins and Marty Grant, respectively. It is to be here through Jan. 22.

WILBUR . . . "SUDS IN YOUR EYE," Jack Kirkland's dramatization of Mary Lasswell's novel, goes into its final week tonight. A merry comedy concerning the adventures of three eccentric old girls, it has Jane Darwell, Brenda Forbes, Kasia Orzazewski, Janet Tyler, Will Hare and others in the cast.

PLYMOUTH . . . ABIE'S IRISH ROSE," starting on the last week of an eight-week run this evening. In the cast of this famous comedy, which has made money for 24 years, are Louise Snyder, Vincent Gardner, Donald Bryan, Robert Leonard, Bertha Walden and others.

COLONIAL . . . "THE DOUGHGIRLS" also departs, after a long and happy stay, on Saturday night. Three brides-in-name-only, played by Betty Furness, Leila French and Peggy French, a bumbling Washington general, played by Taylor Holmes, and a Russian sharpshooter, portrayed by Lenore Ulric, are among those who contributed to its hilarity.

January 10

"THE CHERRY ORCHARD," with Eva LeGallienne and Joseph Shildkraut, at the Wilbur. Carl Wharton and Margaret Webster are the producers and the cast includes Katherine Emery and Carl Benton Reid.

January 11

ERNEST PASCAL'S "PEEPSHOW," a novel comedy based on the eternal triangle John Emery and Tamara Geva head the cast, which includes David Wayne, Mary Howard, Dwight Weist, Lionel Monagus and Elizabeth Dewing. It will be housed at the Plymouth.

January 17

TROPICAL REVUE, WITH KATHRYN DUNHAM, whose exotic primitive dances created a furore in New York last season, opens at the Boston Opera House. It has Bobby Capo, known as the Bing Crosby of South America and a cast of dark-skinned "hot" singers, dancers and musicians.

'Peepshow' Opening At Plymouth Jan. 14

John Emery and Tamara Geva, who are Mr. and Mrs. John Emery in private life, will be the stars of Ernest Pascal's "Peepshow," which will have its world premiere at the Plymouth a week from tomorrow evening.

The play is said to be a new approach to the age-old triangle situation.

Larkin, Jannazzo Sign For Bout Here Jan. 21

By JACK CONWAY

MATCHMAKER EDDIE MACK of the Callahan A. C., started the New Year by signing Tippy Larkin to clash with Izzy Jannazzo in a ten-round bout at Mechanics Building on January 21 . . . Jannazzo was good enough as a boxer to win a decision over Ralph Zanelli at Providence . . . He later lost to Zanelli by a split decision at the Garden.

Larkin won't have a soft time winning from Jannazzo . . . Tippy will be installed a favorite, but he will have to show at his best to win.

Henry Chmielewski

Meanwhile the Callahan A. C. is going ahead with its promotion of the ten-round go between Henry Chmielewski and George (Sonny) Horne that will be held on Thursday night . . . It will be the old story of the puncher against the boxer . . . Chimmy has the kayo sock as he proved as he twice leveled Jackie Caparell . . . Horne has ring class and a chin that does not fare well when hit . . . Larry Pacino proved this when he bounced Horne off the canvas only to find Sonny getting up and later winning the decision . . . With the seating capacity of Mechanics Building slashed by the new building laws, the Mack-O'Brien combination reports a healthy advance sale . . . With fewer seats available and standing room banned under the new law, advance sales are likely to be greater.

Postwar Boxing

I AGREE WITH Matchmaker Eddie Mack when he says that post-war boxing will have a great boom.

"The boxing boom with service men will start as soon as the war ends," said Mack. "There has already been some boxing in the camps, but it has been of a limited nature in view of the fact service units are kept so much on the move. Once the war ends there will be millions of men under arms and they will want something to do. Boxing will be a perfect outlet.

"That is the way it was in the last war when Gene Tunney, Bob Martin, Captain Bob Roper, Young Kloby, Nate Siegal and other boxers smashed their way to the front.

"There will also be natural rivalry between the various service units as well as between men who fought on different battle fronts. Boxing with service men as leaders will have a patriotic as well as an athletic appeal. We may not always have top boxers, but what will be lacking in class will be more than made up for by keen competition."

Louis Eager to Box

JOE LOUIS AND the other champions in service are eager to box, but they must wait war developments before they get the green light from the War Department and Navy Department. If the second front should prove a success, I look for Louis being permitted to defend his world's heavyweight championship against Billy Conn in New York during the coming summer. If the success of the second front should still be in doubt at that time, a Louis-Conn bout is unlikely.

The war is the paramount thought in the minds of the leaders trying to gain a quick peace with victory, and they do not intend to take time out for title boxing bouts until they are certain about how the war is going.

Louis and the other champions recognize this condition, and they will sacrifice their personal desires and ambitions until the Nazis have been beaten back.

The War Dept. has also let it be known that it does not intend to alter its policy in regard to its Army trainees participating in college football. The Navy, on the other hand, is expected to adhere to its present policy of permitting its V-12 students to engage in football and in other college athletics as long as they keep up in their studies.

Frank Leahy found at Notre Dame it was still possible to develop a championship eleven even though his players could not practice half as much as they had in former years. In fact, with fewer hours for drilling, the Irish eleven had more spirit and was able to go through one of the hardest schedules in its history with only one defeat.

Shore Ready To Play Again

Cleveland's Barons picked up three wins and a tie while skating through four games in five nights, but the biggest noise in the American Hockey League during the last week came when Bob Dill of Buffalo poked Referee Gordon Parsons and drew an indefinite suspension, according to the Associated Press.

Referee Parsons was in trouble again last night when he got involved with some irate Hoosier fans in a corridor off ice between periods while Indianapolis was beating Pittsburgh, 4-2.

President Maurice Podoloff announced the suspension of Dill and added that the case would come up for an airing Friday when the league meets in Cleveland.

In the meantime Manager Eddie Shore has placed himself back on the eligible list and was ready if needed last night when the Bisons bowed to Cleveland, 4-2. Shore was not in uniform but put himself on the list in case of an emergency.

Providence saw its losing streak stretched to five as the Reds were beaten by Hershey, 3-1, all scoring coming in the final period.

New Bid for Yanks Seen; Price of Club Slashed

By BILL CORUM

If this column could write the simple rule for the country in in 1944, it would be: STOP GROANING!

We are engaged in what is in many ways a strange war. But nothing about it has been stranger, or less typically American than the Joe Glooms who have been wagging their fingers under our noses and croaking: If you don't do such and you don't do so, how you are going to suffer, brother, ha, ha, ha, how you are going to suffer.

This form of idiocy came pretty close to reaching an all-time high the other day when some gent in Washington bobbed up with the cheering news that we should prepare ourselves for 400,000 casualties in 90 days.

We may have them, the Lord of Hosts forbid. But won't it be time enough to start counting them after they are hit?

My understanding always has been that one of the first essentials of victory was to believe in your heart that you could lick the fellow you were going out to fight. That confidence was half the battle always.

Tell me, did such slogans as "Out of the trenches by Christmas," "On to Berlin" and "Hang the Kaiser" retard the war effort in 1917 and '18? I wasn't around here then. But on the other side it was that feeling of hope, teamwork, and let's-get-this-job-done that kept our fellows going.

Have we got to be a country and a kind of people who have to be propagandized when we are fighting for our homes and our lives? Have we Americans reached a state where we are too weak in the knees to know the facts, good or bad, and still keep punching.

Maybe, I'm as daffy as a pet squirrel in a revolving cage, but this strikes me as the place for somebody to say to this country of ours, this big team of ours: Come on, gang, let's go!

Far from joining the boys on the mourning bench about what is going to happen to baseball and other sports in 1944, I'll be surprised if they don't achieve new peaks and public interest before the leaves fall.

SALE OF YANKS

Incidentally, here's a little tip on what may be the first big baseball story of the new year. Nothing may come of it, because others have dickered for a time and then dropped out of the picture, including the Madison Square Garden Corp. But right now a group of southerners are the hottest kind of prospects as purchasers of the New York Yankees.

We trust if these gentlemen from the South buy 'em that they won't rename them Rebels.

At this writing there still is a difference in the asking and the offered price, as we hear the story, although not enough difference to preclude the possibility of the sale.

The Yankee properties that the late Col. Ruppert once talked about as being worth nine million dollars and of which, after his death, were first offered at around seven million, may be sold in the near future at around two million, or a little bit more.

I repeat that they may not be sold to this group from the South. But the trustees, as everybody knows, are anxious to sell and these men are in the market for a big time ball club. You at least have the makings of a deal there, haven't you?

But sold or operated by the capable gentlemen, headed by Ed Barrow, who have been operating the Yankees and their affiliated teams since Ruppert's death, the world's champions will do okay in the new year.

So will all baseball, all sports, and our country I deeply and sincerely believe. For this is going to be the Good Year. Probably the greatest year in the lives of those of us who are fortunate enough to see it through to its end.

At least, why not meet it with our chins up and that hope in our hearts?

Fans Forget B's Injury Riddled

By BILL GRIMES

There are no sports followers as fickle as the hockey fans. In their first 10 home games, the Bruins furnished enough thrills to satisfy the most rabid hockey zealots. In the opening game, they came from behind and by virtue of a goal by "Busher" Jackson, they tied Les Canadiens. Then, in free scoring wide open games, they stepped through the Maple Leafs 8 to 5 and 6 to 5 respectively. Their third home victory was the first defeat the Flying Frenchmen of Montreal had encountered in 15 games. A four-goal rally in the third period got the Rossmen a draw with the Red Wings and then they polished off Rangers, Chicago, Toronto and Detroit and moved into second place, by virtue of their eight wins and two ties at the Garden.

But, when they were beaten Saturday night, the fans jumped on them with both feet. The Bruin followers apparently completely overlooked the fact that Bep Guidolin was forced out of action in the second period and that Jack Crawford was lost to the club after three minutes of play in the final period.

With the personnel of N. H. L. clubs reduced to 13 players including the goal tender, injuries are almost unsurmountable handicaps. There isn't a club in the league that can or could carry on without the services of such ranking stars as Jack Crawford, who is rated with the best defensemen on "Red" Dutton's loop, and Bep Guidolin, who is the most important sophomore in the N. H. L.

In defeat the poor goal minder is always the "goat." On his way to the dressing room after the Bruins had been beaten by the Maple Leafs, Bert Gardiner was given a terrible going over by the fans. He was called just about everything in the book.

Now the truth of the matter is that Gardiner didn't play a bad game. The fans fail to take into consideration that there are pys in professional hockey whichno goalie tender can stop. And, tbe fair with the much abused Gardiner, the Maple Leafs cameup with at least two of those pys Saturday night.

Gardiner would show to beer advantage if his wing men wild put more of the old college trin their back checking. And, Sarday, Gardiner's assignment wa't eased when Jack Crawford as carried off the ice with a cossion.

It's unfair on the part ofhe fans to expect the current Bns to play the same type of hey they saw in peacetimes. TiN. H. L. is carrying on with yngsters who haven't received hir calls and old-timers, who arener the draft age, plus, of cous a few rejects.

For the duration, the fans sild bear with the Bruins. Theris are improving and the oldsterre bearing down. And, when thear is over, Art Ross will show me of the greatest talent the ne has ever produced wearing Bon uniforms.

NEW YORK, Jan. 3 (AP)—he Boston Bruins equalled the hscoring mark of the Natal Hockey League season and lrb Cain, league-leading goal-gter, added three tallies to his totas Boston walloped New York ingers, 13 to 3.

In addition to his three gls, bringing his season total to14, Cain also drew two assists inhe deluge of shots and almost buted Ken McCauley.

Hub Man Heads Big Navy Air Base at Pensacola

By HUCK FINNEGAN

PENSACOLA, Fla., Jan. 3—Commandant of the vast naval air training center at Pensacola and an outstanding figure in World War 2 is a Boston man—Rear Adm. (and soon to be Vice-Adm.) George Dominic Murray, U. S. Naval Academy 1911.

Admiral Murray, a captain at the time, was in command of the aircraft carrier Enterprise before Pearl Harbor and remained in command until after the Battle of Midway. And the Enterprise, it is worth repeating, is credited with having sunk or damaged 35 Jap ships and felling 185 Jap planes. He was carrier task force commander, with Hornet as flagship, in South Pacific combat area during the defense of Guadalcanal and the battle of Santa Cruz.

One of the handful of men who kept Japan from winning the war two years ago!

Easy to Meet

Among his decorations are:

NAVY CROSS presented by the commander in chief, U. S. Pacific Fleet, Admiral C. W. Nimitz, on May 29, 1942, for "courage and resourcefulness in saving his ship from serious damage" while under a heavy bombing attack in enemy waters during the Marshall Islands raid.

DISTINGUISHED SERVICE MEDAL presented by the chief of the Bureau of Aeronautics May 1, 1943, for "exceptionally meritorious service to the government of the United States in a position of great responsibility as Commander of a Task Force in the Battle of the Santa Cruz Islands on Oct. 26, 1942."

PRESIDENTIAL UNIT CITATION with star for service while commanding officer of Enterprise.

ASIATIC-PACIFIC RIBBON with silver and bronze stars for carrier engagements in the Pacific, including Marshall-Gilbert Islands attack, Wake Island, Marcus Island attack, Tokyo Raid, Battle of Midway, defense of Guadalcanal and the Battle of Santa Cruz Islands.

WORLD WAR VICTORY MEDAL with bronze star.

VERA CRUZ CAMPAIGN MEDAL (MEXICO).

Now you'd figure a man with that record would be rather difficult to meet. You conjure visions of gold braid, social starch, forensic frost. Far from it. You call Lieut.-Col. Byrnes McDonald, the Admiral's Aide, and you find out from the former secretary of New York's LaGuardia that "The Admiral is in conference but if you care to wait a minute, I'm sure he'll be glad to see you."

So you wait a minute and sure enough the Admiral is glad to see you.

"Have a chair," he says, offering both hand and a cigarette. "Glad to see somebody from Boston."

Mechanic Arts Grad

You are seated and he tells you he graduated from Mechanic Arts High in 1906 . . . "Mr. Parmenter was the principal" . . . He played baseball (left field), hockey and was football manager . . . among his team-mates were Tom Dunn, later coach, and George Hall . . . "Dunn was a fine first baseman, Hall looked like a major league pitcher until he was injured playing football, at Tufts, I believe" . . . and there were fellows named big Tom Sullivan from Charlestown, Rossetti and Hayward, he recalled . . . he liked baseball, he said, and when on leave from Annapolis his brother always took him to see Ty Cobb at the old Huntington ave. grounds . . . "The master," he said of Cobb. "Always scooting from first to third on an infield hit, scoring from first on a single. Something doing every minute he was in the game" . . . No, he didn't know Ted Williams. Was he anything like Cobb?

As a youth, the Admiral lived at 75 Ocean ave., in the Ashmont section of Dorchester, and John F. Fitzgerald "lived right down the street. My mother died when we were quite young, and Mrs. John F. was like a mother to my brother Norman."

Mention of John F. is synonymous with politics, and Adm. Murray revealed that his father, "Mike" Murray, had been a state senator some 40 years back.

"He ran on the Democratic ticket, I imagine," said the admiral, "but he was an Independent. In those days the legislature elected the congressmen, and father cast the deciding vote that sent Henry Cabot Lodge (Republican) to Congress.

"The Hearst paper in Boston didn't like it, and mother almost died when the paper printed a picture of father on Page 1 with the word 'Traitor' across his forehead."

The admiral sat back in his chair, inhaled the cigarette, and asked, harmlessly enough:

"By the way, Mr. Finnegan, which paper do you represent in Boston?"

"Boston Transcript, Sir."

Silver Skates Entries Open

There is every indication that Greater Boston entries for the famed annual Silver Skates Derby which takes place at the Boston Garden Jan. 30, will hit a new high.

With more December skating around here than there has been in years, the youngsters have been Derby conscious for some weeks now and have been checking this office regularly asking when the entry blank will appear.

The official blank makes its first appearance in the Boston American today and will appear daily until entries close Jan. 30.

SHOULD SPEED ENTRIES

It will help the committee which is again headed by Ben Levias greatly if those who intend competing will send their entries along as soon as possible for it helps greatly in planning the heats and preparing the huge program.

As in past years there will also be internationally famous stars who will appear in special exhibitions to add color to the colorful racing card.

These great names of the ice will be announced at a later date. The important factor at present is in lining up the racing program.

ANYONE CAN ENTER

Anybody can compete. No club affiliation is necessary.

Any amateur, regardless of age, living in New England can stack his or her speed against the field.

The only cost is the price of stamp with which to mail your entry. There is no fee of any kind.

Appling Through As Ball Player

CAMP LEE, Va., Jan. 3 (AP)—Luke Appling, American League batting champion, who arrived at this quartermaster center for his basic training a few days ago, said he probably would not return to the major leagues as an active player after the war.

The Chicago White Sox shortstop, who hit .328 last season, said he was beginning to feel his age of 37. He said he already had had trouble with his legs and felt they wouldn't standup under a major league season by the time he got out of the Army.

He had been the hitting star of the Chicago infield for 13 seasons, reaching a peak of .388 during the 1936 campaign, and four times was named on the league all-star team.

Bowl Tilts Pickers Nurse 'Hangovers'

By International News Service

Among the more notable New Year's "hangovers" still around to plague the citizenry today is that being suffered by the bowl game pickers. Their picking was not of the best, with underdogs walloping the favored elevens, heralded aerial battles developing into slogging conflicts in mud, and tie games crossing up everybody.

The best-attended, most lucrative and most bitterly played of Saturday's Bowl contests was the Sugar Bowl game at New Orleans, where 69,000 saw Georgia Tech overcome an early lead to edge out Tulsa, 20 to 18. The Golden Hurricane swept to a tally in the first five minutes of play. Then two more in the second period. It was not until Tech sliced through the Tulsa line that it began to overtake the Oklahomans. Ed Scharfschwerdt's one-foot plunge in the final quarter gave Tech its triumph.

COAST TITLE

Southern California, a 4 to 1 underdog, captured the Pacific Coast Conference title by upsetting Washington, 29 to 0, before 65,000 in the Rose Bowl at Pasadena. Three touchdown passes were fired by Jim Hardy, who at the end of the regular season had been demoted to the second string because of repeated fumbling.

Steve Van Buren, the nation's high scorer, led the Louisiana State team to a 19 to 14 victory over favored Texas A. & M. before 27,000 in the Orange Bowl at Miami. The hard-driving back previously had been stopped by the same team, but this time he walked all over them, scoring twice on line plunges and passing for another tally.

RAIN CUTS CROWD

All-America Glenn Dobbs, of Randolph Fleid, played a great game but his passing arm was not accurate enough in the pay-offs as the Airmen tied with Texas, 7-7, before 15,000 in the Dallas Cotton Bowl. The expected crowd of 30,000 was cut in half by rain.

Almost 60,000 saw the East and West deadlocked, 13-13, at San Francisco. Three freshmen stole the show—Herman Wedemeyer led the western attack and Bob Hoernschmeyer and Dean Sensanbaugh starred for the East.

A final-quarter pass gave Southwestern Texas a 7 to 0 triumph over University of Mexico in the Sun Bowl at El Paso. Although the southwestern attack was touted as one of the most potent in the country, Mexico did not succumb until the last eight minutes of play.

"WHICH WAY WILL YOU GO?"

This is the picture of any young man . . . it could be you. You can go left towards baldness by ignoring nature's warnings, or you can go right to Warner's to find out if you can save your hair.

Thousands of men and women have saved or improved their hair through treatment by John E. Warner and Associates but hundreds of others have been rejected because they waited too long.

Which way will you go? Toward baldness? Or toward John Warner? A private scalp examination and consultation is available to you at our offices without charge or obligation.

Fees for treatment are very moderate and are payable as the treatments are taken—not in advance. There is a separate department for women.

ADAMS SETS 300 WINNERS AS TURF GOAL

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 3 (AP)—Slow-voiced Johnny Adams, whose fast riding gave him 227 victories and the leading jockey's title in the year just ended, looks on 1944 as his opportunity to boost his record above 300 winners and take his fourth riders' championship.

It would be a new mark for the diminutive 28-year-old from Iola, Kan., but would make no turf history. Other riders have surpassed the 300 mark, but none has ever won the turf title more than four times.

"I had to ride 1200 horses in 1943 to get my 227 wins," Adams drawled. "That's hard work, and when I saw I had the title in the bag I rode fewer horses.

"I've never had a full year of riding. My first win was at Riverside Park in 1935, and since 1936 I've had at least a hundred winners a year, beginning with 1936. In four of those years I've won more than 200, my best year being 1937 with 262. But there's always been a couple of months a year in which I didn't ride.

"This business of winning 300 in 1944 isn't a New Year resolution. I'll win every race I ride if possible, but to boot 300 winners home is a tough grind. With luck and by riding a full year I ought to pass 300."

He admitted that the jockey title gave him a thrill.

"It gives a fellow a good feeling to know he's at the head of the list," he said with a bashful smile. "These other riders are good, you know, and they are real competition. It makes you feel like you've done something when you win the title."

Swampscott Golfer Opens Title Defense

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Jan. 3 (AP)—Jimmy Caputo, Swampscott, Mass., landscaper, started defense of his New Year's golf championship at Lakewood Country Club today, bidding for the title a sixth straight year.

Caputo and William Thetford, Tampa, last year's runnerup, are co-medalists of the tournament. Match play started today, with Caputo meeting Fred Ayling, Syracure, N. Y. and Thetford playing Bob McCuller, a fellow Tampan, in the first round.

Private School Hockey Starts

Schoolboy hockey fans needn't be disappointed because the biggest winter sports week has ended as almost as many games will be scrowded up to them this week. The Private Schools stage their second conference, the Boston Schools get away to a start today and the GBI, Eastern and Bay State travel at full speed over the week-end with their usual four game programs.

The Boston Schools are off to a belated start but will more than make up for it before the season is over with two dates a week until late in February.

Two ancient rivals open the hostilities at the Arena today when English and Dorchester get together. Usually at this time of year the city group is pretty rusty but with all the ice on local ponds and playgrounds both teams are in mid-season form. But English, because of its large veteran squad, will be favored but Dorchester can not be counted out. Latin School, runner up to English last year, meets Memorial in the second game and Commerce clashes with Mechanics in the finale.

Charley FitzGerald has a veteran squad at Latin and should be in for a great year while the other three coaches have to start from scratch and build from the ground up.

New Bedford Club in Shoot

New Bedford's Rifle and Revolver Club draws the honor of being the first entrant in the 1944 William Randolph Hearst Citizen Marksmanship Competition for this area.

The marksmen from the southern part of the state will enter one team and their entry was received shortly before Prof. J. J. Devine who is head of the rifle club at Northeastern filed an entry for the collegians.

During the next week entries are expected from all parts of New England except for the state of Connecticut for the Nutmeggers fire in the New York area.

All entries for the shoot must be in the mail by Jan. 22. It is wise, though, to file entries early so that the rules can be forwarded, the referees selected and approved and any questionable points cleared up.

Wire Your Congressman Demanding Legislation for Aid of Discharged Veterans

Wire your Congressman immediately to adopt legislation that will provide a year's pay for every honorably discharged service man as he is returned to civilian life.

Let's not have any bemedaled apple peddlers after this war.

Register your protest against the neglect of the wounded, disabled and mentally sick men of the armed forces who have been discharged without any provision for their care and treatment.

Telegraph your Congressman to act immediately to provide a year's pay for those brave men who have fought and bled to preserve the American way of life.

This is urgent. Telegraph today.

Yanks Are Seasoned Troops

These soldiers, members of the 32d Division, were among the seasoned troops which made the new landings on New Guinea at Saidor, cutting off thousands of Jap troops still fighting at Blucher Point, and threatening the Jap base at Madang. These troops are seasoned hands, having made the landings at Buna and other South Pacific islands. Associated Press Wirephoto
